Preface

Only you give credibility to the words of others. If you don't think their words contain any truth, the words or motives won't influence you.

If you are sitting here in your very best red dress and I say, "That is the ugliest purple dress I have ever seen!" you would likely laugh at me. But if I said, "Your dress doesn't really become you," there may be doubts about your choice of clothing for the day. How would you feel about me for saying such a thing?

Once upon a time my husband put on a tie that I didn't think matched the suit he was wearing. I tried to tactfully ask, "Do you really think that tie matches your suit?" He responded, "You, Miss Frump of 1968, are attempting to tell me how to dress." He denied my perceptions, but he never wore the tie with that suit again, ever. He wanted to strike out at me to justify his own choices.

He listened, but he had already made his decision. He was required by his own mind to negate me. His ego was talking.

People who really care about what is best for you will tell you the Truth because they honor your right to make decisions based on what is real.

People who lie and distort the truth only care that you see the world their way and, in that situation, will honor their needs first. They want you to serve their purpose.

People who truly care about you don't lie to you to suit their own agenda, against what you know to be appropriate for you.

To me, it is an honor to share my truth. It doesn't presuppose that you will accept my truth as your own.

These profiles were gleaned through nVoice, a software program developed in 1984 that has been used thousands of times because people deserve the truth. The analyses have been edited for clarity and conciseness, so they will not exactly match nVoice's output.

Nancy Pelosi

Pelosi talking about the military not supporting climate change

One of the most memorable vocal prints dealing with Pelosi was her teaching others how to smear their colleagues in the media. What she was instructing people about was vile. She knew the information was false, but wanted to use the press to spread knowingly untrue information for her own purposes.

First, her action is FOR A PURPOSE; then emotion to support self-ego (before others) – third, intellect, but only to keep others thinking that they come first; and last—she considers future ramifications.

Examples of her machinations:

Helped put THROUGH CONGRESS that the government must use electric vehicles

Bought electric car stock - <https://greenwald.substack.com/p/nancy-and-paul-pelosi-making-millions>

Structured to require that the government builds charging stations

Changed military vehicles over to electric

Saule Omarova, Biden's pick for Head of Treasury, blatantly stated his economic goal in a congressional hearing: she said the government needs to run the small independents into bankruptcy to secure more government control over energy resources.

Biden already shut down the Keystone pipeline and plans to cut more.

Have the government build an electric station to control electric pump stations with it.

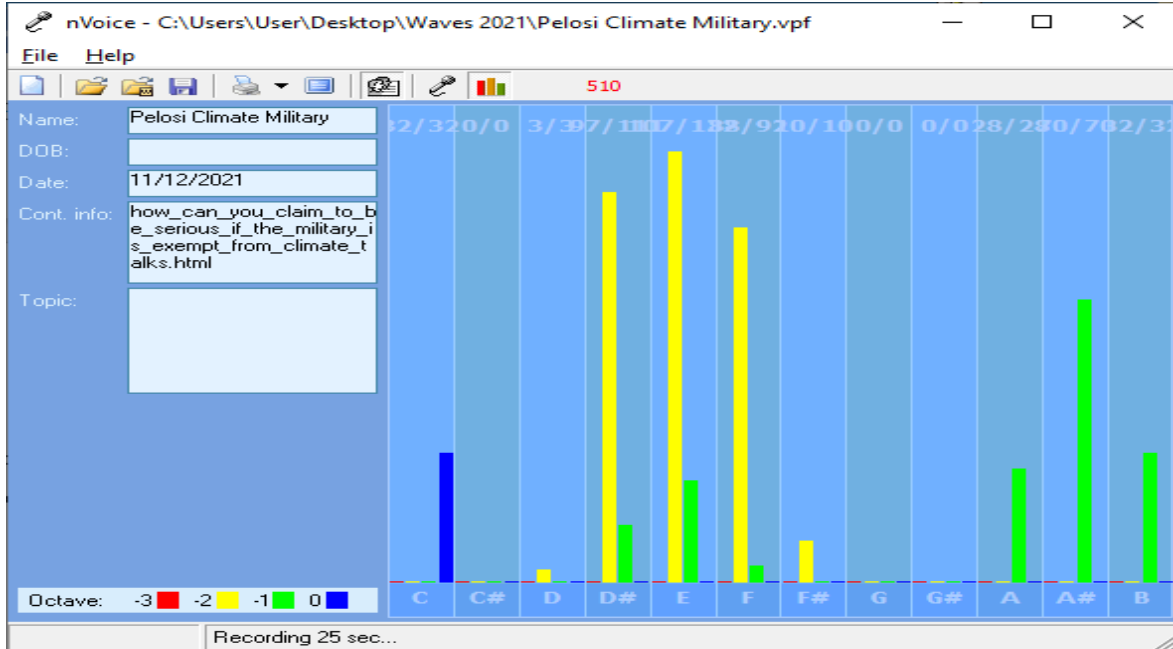

It is easier to control if there is only one source of energy.

Comments:

Emotions spent on self; justice not energized; intellectual use of information

Internal structural against intellectual words of spiritual management for others

Missing Notes

You have no hits for the notes of C#, G and G#. Either you did not take enough samples (100-500 is usually best) or your subject matter did not include thoughts or topics that would involve these notes. See the Note Correlate Chart that appears on the Cover Page for more explanation.

Points of Importance, Attention and Consequence

You can use words to persuade the minds of others. If you ever had to lie to see justice done, you would do it, but your sense of justice does not always jive with the law. You can easily use vocal expressions to misdirect a query.

You can use the high or low of your voice to give people direction as to how to treat you and you can convey a great variety of expressions using vocal nuance instead of words. You are very intuitive at listening to what people are not saying. You have strong opinions about protecting others who cannot protect themselves.

You will come back repeatedly to an unsettled situation until you find a satisfying answer. It distresses you when someone attempts to disprove you. You know when you have settled your mind about a situation because you no longer have a need to talk about it. Being without a reason/cause for an unsettling event can be disturbing and very mentally time-consuming for you.

You plan well and want to see to it that your plans happen. It is easy for you to see the faults in others but don't always know how to get your point across politely. You expect others to take your suggestions seriously and gracefully.

You like nice things, and you are not averse to working hard to obtain them. Your highest note deals with expression through words, both written and oral, as well as the world of creative self-expression; the expression of change of the body, mind and/or spirit; the balance between self-expression and self-worth; the expression and integration of appropriate perception and action and the ability to assess a situation quickly.

You can sometimes do too much for others in the hopes of helping them change, and you do for others before you do for yourself. Defining your own ideals and what you want from life is the first step to not following a wrong road. You can see what the best for others but sometimes ignore what is best for you. You tend to learn by example and your motivation is mostly mental.

Ideas come to you in very odd moments when you are distracted by a task. It would take a lot of planning to get everything done that you want to. Being able to prioritize what needs to be done emotionally is not always easy for you, but you can just shut down when you are overwhelmed. Your metabolism shows to be a weak point in your vocal print.

Points of Communication, Complications and Complaints

You can convince others with words - spoken and written, use words very creatively and inspire people using stories and demonstrations. You can think well and spontaneously when the need arises and change mental direction in a heartbeat.

You have high standards for emotional trust and understand intellectually that trust should be earned, but often trust without reservation. You think about how your words will be received before you speak and you understand that others' stubbornness of thought is a lack of appropriate information about the subject. You can see through people who are trying to convince you that wrong is right. You work well behind the scenes, but you expect to be compensated for a job well done, not necessarily in money, but in appreciation.

You can plan for yourself and others, easily show others how to put a plan together and get satisfaction out of being able to find and correct mistakes.

You can be talked out of your own opinions if solid evidence is presented because you are open to current ideas. You can also sometimes take criticism too quickly and too personally because you want to be more aware of your self-issues. You can be hard on yourself - taking blame or responsibility - that does not really reside with you. You sometimes fail to defend yourself because you do not want to criticize others' opinions. In your desire to be of value to others' growth, you will learn that doing for others too quickly is not good for them.

You can easily be distracted from conducting your plans by a more exciting prospect and do not seem to have enough time and energy to get everything done that you want to. You would rather people come to you and ask for help instead of assuming you have time to help them.

You tend to neglect your spiritual growth by maintaining too heavy a workload and would like to have more time to spend on spiritual things. You have a challenging time prioritizing what you want to do first.

Points of Cooperation, Learning, Opportunity, and Growth

You do not often take enough time for yourself but would appreciate it if others would. You have an extremely high regard for those who appreciate you and sometimes give more lip service than attention to your spiritual needs. You have been known to do for others before you do what you need for yourself. Others expect a great deal from you because you have always shown to want to be there for them. Those who demand you do something because you always did it in the past do not have your best interests at heart.

You have more ideas than stamina to carry everything to fruition, and you can push to get things done, but can feel let down if your efforts are unappreciated. Your emotional satisfaction is often linked with the outlook that others have toward what you do.

You like to plan by talking about how things are to be done. Discussions about people's motives are a source of inspiration. You like to be creative, but like to try your ideas with someone you trust first. You tolerate long-winded people because you can see through their pretense to their needs. Your self-esteem comes from what you accomplish, and you don't tolerate fools who repeat information they can't defend.

You can use words to help others find their path, go to a deep internal space using self-dialogue, talk others into conducting the details and envision a result, but you do not want to have to explain everything in detail.

Your self-approval is often improved by others' appreciation. To your own detriment, you sometimes put others' opinions ahead of what you think about yourself. You would rather take criticism than give it. Not knowing the reason of a situation can greatly concern you about your own involvement in the outcome.

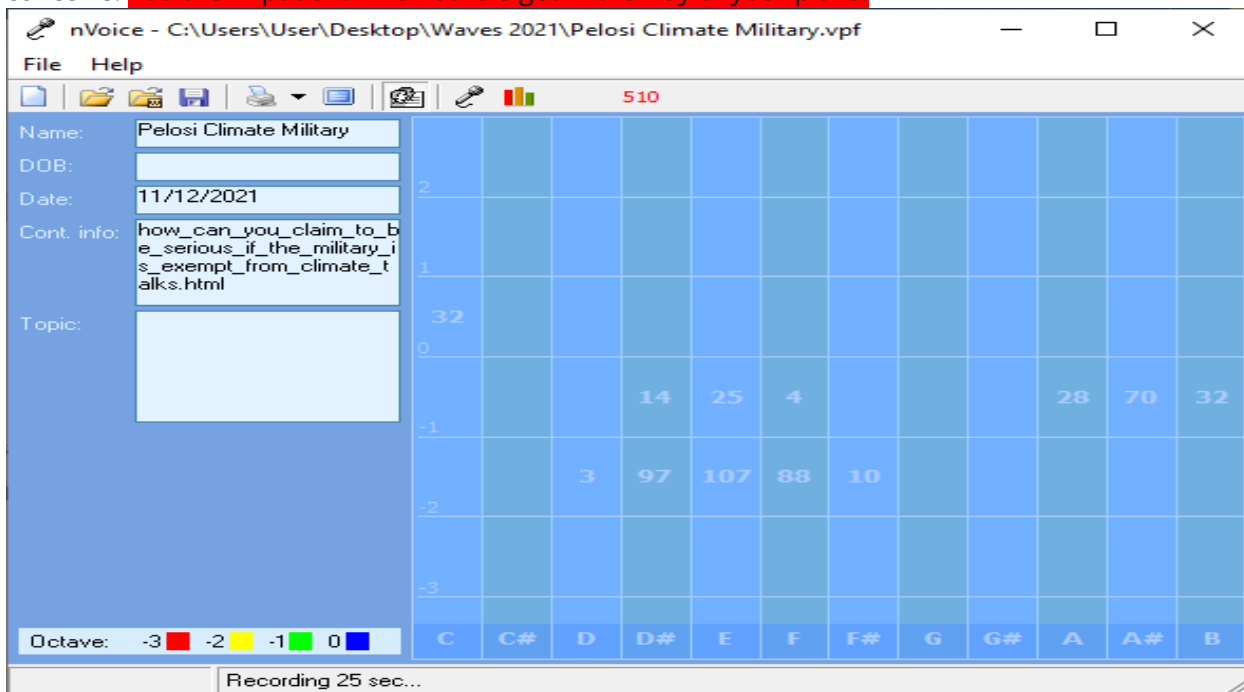

You are often too busy to think about or plan for the unexpected. Carrying the burden of thinking about it all and doing it all at the same time is heavy. Stress about getting things done can keep you from having the energy to complete the task.

You are more likely than others to resent people who use power trips to get their own way and you value having the ability to use power for the right reason at the right time. You have a good grasp of when you should use your influence for others and when you should use it for yourself. Others look to you for leadership, but you do not always want to be in that position.

You tend to promise more than you have time to deliver, and do not always have the energy to carry out what you intended to do. You can get excited when you talk about an idea but can easily lose interest if you already know the outcome.

You can easily use self-talk as a way of self-healing, and would like to be appreciated, but often feel awkward handling the attention. You sometimes know the right solutions before you hear all the facts and dislike being interrupted when you are trying to concentrate or explain.

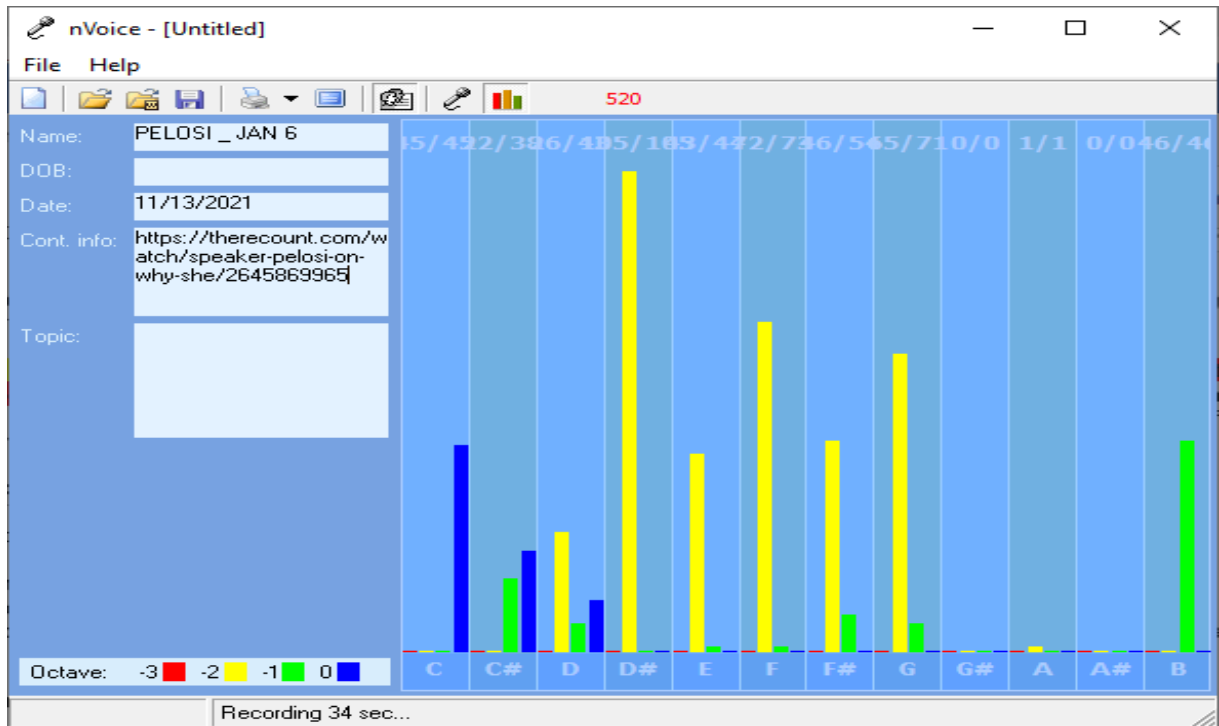

You plan well but are sometimes short on the follow through because there just does not seem to be enough time to get it all done. The cooperation of others is essential to accomplish all that you conceive. You are impatient when others get in the way of your plans.

You have no hits for the notes of G# and A#. Either you did not take enough samples (100-500 is usually best) or your subject matter did not include thoughts or topics that would involve these notes. See the Note Correlate Chart that appears on the Cover Page for more explanation.

Points of Importance, Attention and Consequence

You have a high degree of intuition when it comes to listening to what people are not saying. You have strong opinions about protecting others who do not have the ability to protect themselves.

You will come back repeatedly to a situation that is unsettled until you find an answer that satisfies you. It distresses you when someone attempts to disprove you. You know when you have settled your mind about a situation because you no longer have a need to talk about it.

Being without a reason/cause for an unsettling event can be disturbing and very mentally time-consuming for you.

You plan well and want to see to it that your plans are carried out. It is easy for you to see the faults in others but don't always know how to get your point across politely. You expect others to take your suggestions seriously and gracefully.

You like nice things, and you are not averse to working hard to obtain them. You know where your physical things are, even when others don't understand your system. You like control of your physical environment. Your stamina to get things accomplished is admirable. Your highest note is associated with the expression of change of the body, mind and/or spirit. Seekers of internal Truth live here. The balance between self-expression and self-worth resides with this note. Your highest note is associated with the expression and integration of appropriate perception and action. The ability to assess a situation quickly resides with this note. Your highest note is associated with the expression of what you consider to be your physical domain. Having dominion over your physical environment resides with this note.

Being able to prioritize what needs to be done emotionally is not always easy for you. You can just shut down when you are overwhelmed. Your metabolism shows as a weak point in your vocal print. You sometimes depend on others to support your place in the world. You can see how a situation needs to play out, but you do not want to seem interfering. You do not always express your sense of confusion to the appropriate person when others attempt to deal with you inappropriately.

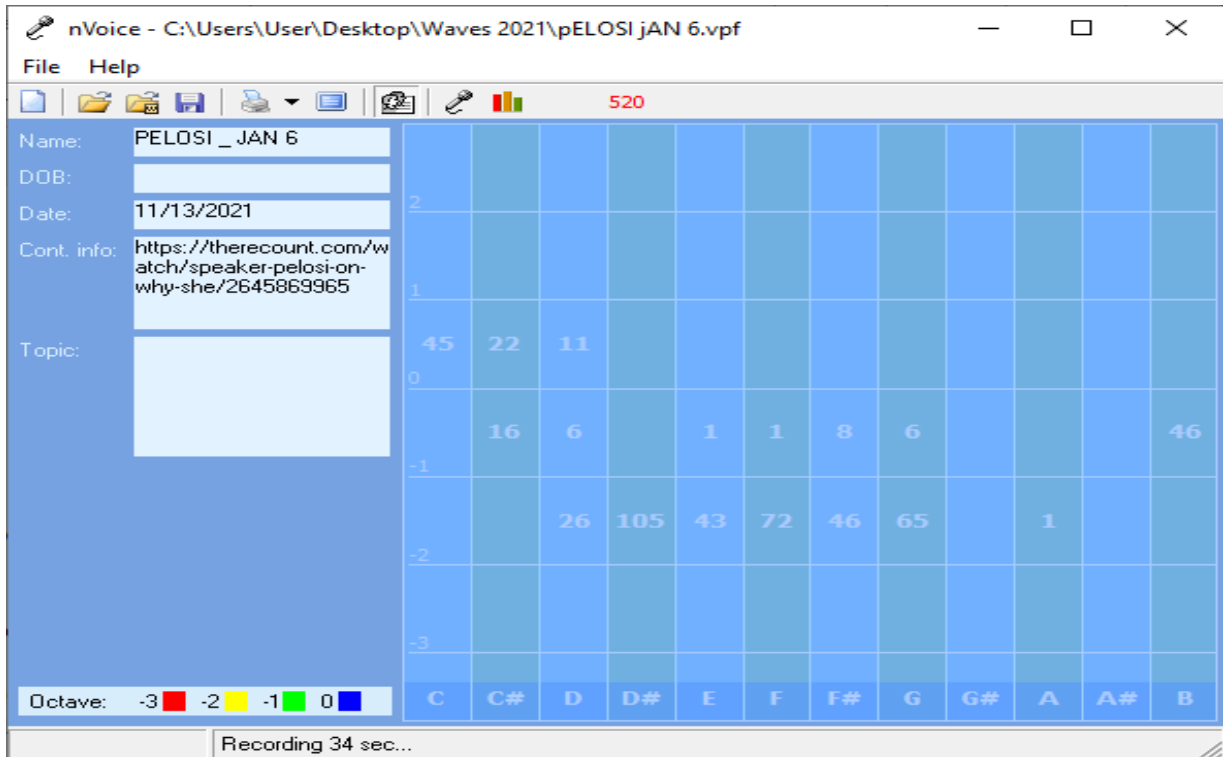

You can sometimes do too much for others in the hopes of helping them change. You do for others before you do for yourself. It is a struggle sometimes to decide what you really think and what part belongs to someone else because you are so empathetic. Defining your own ideals and what you want from life is the first step to not following a wrong road. You can see what is best for others but sometimes ignore what is the best for you. You tend to learn by example.

Points of Communication, Complications and Complaints

You can be quick to find the error and provide a solution. You have a balanced opinion of self-worth. You strive to learn more about yourself and others. You quietly go about improving whatever comes into your view. You would make a good, solid, and stable friend but sometimes get abused because of your forgiving nature.

Your standards for emotional trust are high. You understand intellectually that trust should be earned but often give trust without reservation. You think about how your words will be received before you speak. You understand that stubbornness of thought exhibited by others is a lack of having all the appropriate information about the subject. You can see through people who are trying to convince you that wrong is right. You work well behind the scenes, but you expect to be compensated for a job well done, not necessarily in money but in appreciation.

You can plan for yourself and others. You can easily show others how to put a plan together. You can get satisfaction out of being able to find and correct mistakes.

Being able to appreciate your environment is important to you. Comfort in your environment needs to be balanced with pleasing colors and functionality. You like your working environment to be efficient with things readily available.

You tend to neglect your spiritual growth by maintaining too heavy a workload. You would like to have more time to spend on spiritual things. You have a challenging time prioritizing what you want to do first.

You do not always know how to fight back to secure what is properly your due. It is hard for you to understand why people take your peaceful nature as being an easy target. If a rule does not pertain to you, you don't often bother to object. You very much appreciate those who come to your verbal rescue.

Points of Cooperation, Learning, Opportunity, and Growth

You have the power and ability to get things done. You sometimes take on more than you can do in the time allotted. You have pride and patience to see the best job done.

You are willing to take the lead when things need to get done. Your ability to have an idea and get it done is admirable. You have a balance between your need to have credit for accomplishments and your ability to get things done. You tend to let your accomplishments speak for you.

You actively support equal rights in words, in deeds and money - when you have it. You can use self-power and self-approval as a potent combination to change opinions. You can be very persuasive when it comes to convincing people that their opinions and ideas are right/wrong. You have a balanced sense of self-worth.

Your sense of self-power is combined with a powerful sense of justice. You will help once but insist that people learn to help themselves.

You value bringing plans to fruition and your sense of physical honor is high. A lack of physical space and tools can keep you from doing what you planned.

You like to get things done but need a plan first. You don't like people interfering with the way things need to get done. You do not mind helping, but you don't want to be kept to a schedule or plan that is not your own.

Your self-approval is often improved by appreciation from others. To your own detriment, you sometimes put the opinions of others ahead of what you think about yourself. You would rather take criticism than give it. Not knowing the "why" of a situation can cause you great concern about your own involvement in the outcome.

You have a low tolerance for meaningless conversation. You have lots of ideas but prefer to keep them to yourself until you have worked them out completely. You would like the world to be fair without the need for arguments.

A balance between giving and receiving is not always easy for you. You often give more than you receive in return.

You can easily use self-talk as a way of self-healing and would like to be appreciated, but often feel awkward handling the attention. You sometimes know the right solutions before you hear all the facts and you dislike being interrupted when you are trying to concentrate or explain.

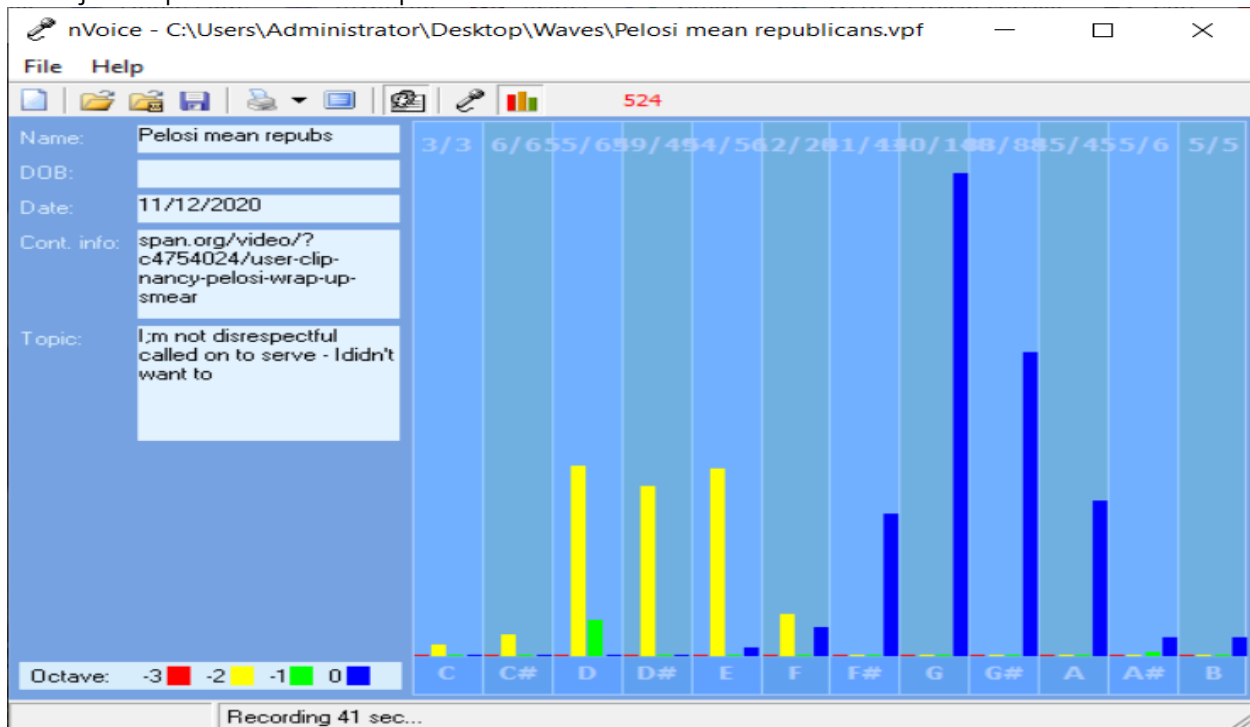

Your spirituality is often at odds with your physical lot in life. You do not often allow yourself the time to dedicate to your spiritual endeavors. You would like more time to contemplate the universe, humanity, and mankind's place in history. You tend to want to do more than time allows.

You are hit hard at a soul level when justice does not prevail. You actively want to bring spiritual law to your life. Contemplation of what you want for your life and those around you will bring peace of spirit. Trusting in spirit may come hard for you or may be too easy because you jump from not questioning to total questioning. Balance between Truth and Spirit must come from within. Listening to others will give you ideas but will not satisfy you.

Pelosi - Mean Republicans

Recording Date: 11/12/2020

Subject/Topic: I am not disrespectful called on to serve - I did not want to

Points of Importance, Attention and Consequence

You know where your physical things are located even when others cannot understand your system, and you like control of your physical environment. You have admirable stamina to get things accomplished. You want everything done, but you do so much that some things do not get done on time. You can be fussy about your physical space. It needs to satisfy you and no one else.

Sometimes you spend a lot of energy trying to get even the smallest detail right the first time. You may appear to overestimate your own value to those around you because your self-approval is solid. When you think things through from an internal perspective, your philosophical opinions are very much appreciated. You challenge the opinions of others with good reason.

You desire to have information confirmed and tend to teach by intellectually adapting your behavior to be a good example for others. Your highest note is associated with the expression of what you consider to be your physical domain, along with having dominion over your physical environment, the expression of physically prioritizing what you need and want to accomplish, personal control over what happens in your physical environment, the expression of Self-Approval and Self-Worth and issues of digestion, enzyme and energy production.

Sometimes you think you might as well be invisible when you spend your energy to help others because they do not seem to be listening now. You want to do something about the mess the world is in but just do not seem to have the energy. The demands on your life do not leave enough time for you personally. It is important to consider how your actions influence others.

When confronted with what may be untrue, have the courage to go to the source and ask for clarification. Providing balance between what you want and what you will allow yourself, will result in harmony in your life. Those around you will allow you to give too much unless you define your own needs. You tend to do more for others than they do for you.

Points of Communication, Complications and Complaints

You want to be able to appreciate your environment, whose comfort needs to be balanced with pleasing colors and functionality. You like your working environment to be efficient with things readily available.

You can organize and prioritize in your head. It may not look that way to others, but it is your mode of operation. You like to organize yourself so that everything is at hand and easy to utilize. It is particularly bothersome when people use or borrow your property without permission.

Working to improve yourself is a strong issue. You seek information about yourself that allows you to be resourceful in your interactions with others. You approve of yourself and let others know by the good example you set. You are not likely to allow yourself to be pushed around by other people's opinions. You tend to teach by your actions.

You like to contemplate an issue before you speak up and are sometimes reluctant to take the lead. You have promising ideas, but are sometimes reluctant to speak up, and you like the idea of leadership, but sometimes take on more than you expected to contribute.

Your connection to universal truths can be easily misplaced if you allow others to demand your time. Deciding to put yourself first may require considerable contemplation, but being proactive will lead you where you want to be. You like to see what others think and then add your opinion later and you can put yourself aside for others, and you often do.

You do not always know how to fight back to secure what is properly your due. It is hard for you to understand why people take your peaceful nature as being an easy target. If a rule does not pertain to you, you do not often bother to object. You very much appreciate those who come to your verbal rescue.

Points of Cooperation, Learning, Opportunity, and Growth

You want to get to the core of what you really believe to be the right way of life. There are times when you disregard your own needs to help others and you want to make a difference in their lives to help them move toward a more unselfish life. You are a natural teacher by example, have a patient outlook on life and can work toward a specific goal without regard for your own needs.

You are willing to spend a lot of your time making sure that others learn about integrity, wisdom, and responsibility. You challenge yourself much more than others challenge you and you love seeing all the pieces fall together to make it all work.

Your sense of self-approval depends on what you have accomplished, and you want to work to improve yourself physically, but find excuses to put it off. How others see you physically is important to you even if you do not claim it to be.

You have more ideas that you can physically get done. You have no trouble starting something just to see if you can do it, and you learn easily from your own mistakes. You do not tolerate the repeated mistakes of others well and you have a good spatial memory. You can easily lose the big picture because you pay close attention to detail.

You like to plan by talking about how things are to be done. Discussions about people's motives are a source of inspiration. You like to be creative, but like to try your ideas with someone you trust first. You tolerate long-winded people because you can see through their pretense to their needs. Your self-esteem comes from what you accomplish. You do not tolerate fools who repeat information they cannot defend.

You work to see that others are not taken advantage of. Writing that flows freely to you can also help move others towards their own inner strength. Your self-approval depends on living from the inside out - from the core of your being. You have a great ability to learn from your own mistakes and move on.

You have good intentions about bringing your plans to fruition, but seem disorganized to the casual onlooker. You would like more options about your physical surroundings.

You tend to think you ought to fight authority to prove personal points of honor even when it costs you. Joining a group that thinks like you do will help bring justice to a situation. Your own self-approval issues can get in the way of expressing your opinions that need to be heard. You can be quick to judge before you gather all the pertinent facts. In most cases it is a lack of understanding your motivations.

You like to get things done, but need a plan first. You do not like people interfering with the way things need to get done. You do not mind helping but you do not want to be kept to a schedule or plan that is not your own.

You value spiritual justice and accept the idea that people choose their own lessons and punishment. You work toward healing the gap between spiritual law and man's law. Your physical health is closely related to your spiritual health. What you want to do and what you feel obligated to do are often in conflict.

Expressing your true emotions is a private matter for you unless justice is involved. You would just as soon that people keep their opinions about you to themselves. Being comfortable is more important to you than your image.

There are indications that issues with cellular oxygenation may need monitoring. Identifying which foods are most compatible with you is important to your digestive health. The process of digestion needs to be considered via enzyme evaluation.

The balance of pride and a love of humanity keeps you committed and busier than you would like. You can lose interest in a project without warning. You are likely to be put into a position to require others to finish projects because you spread yourself too thin.

Seriously, Pelosi may be experiencing intermittent bouts of Alzheimer's. During a routine vocal profile conducted by the Institute of BioAcoustic Biology, it became observable that Nancy Pelosi, former Majority Leader in the US House of Representatives, may have a serious issue dealing with the delivery of oxygen to the brain.

Geraldine Ferraro, former vice-presidential candidate and women's rights pioneer, recently stated that she knew Nancy Pelosi to be a very intelligent woman. If that is true, why would Pelosi report to Larry King that gas prices at "a dollar something" during the Bush administration are now three times higher at $256, hardly a multiple of three? [<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=uXLogeLeYis&feature=related>]

Why would Pelosi make a public announcement that unemployment creates jobs, or the non-passage of Obama's stimulus package would cause the loss of 500 million jobs in the US? The entire population of the US is approximately 300 million. If any of these were isolated events, they might be excused, but there are a myriad of blunders that have been published. [<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=x8hMJVXt09E>]

Many of Pelosi's statements after the recent mid-term elections were incredibly baffling, as were her statements about CIA water boarding torture techniques in an address to the press. YouTube.com is replete with videos of Pelosi with titles like: "Pelosi, dumber than soap," "Nancy Pelosi is an Idiot" and "Pelosi says unemployment creates jobs." Many of Pelosi's public statements during the last two years are not those of an intelligent woman but of a person who is insensate and befuddled. She doesn't seem to even realize that she is incredibly off base with her perceptions and information.

A shocking example of this was her decision to run for Minority Leader of the new Congress. In the face of devastating Democratic losses under her leadership, she doesn't realize or can't face the idea that she is deeply unpopular. She appears unrepentant as to her participation in her Party's rejection by the populace. Precedent dictates that she should quietly excuse herself but she doesn't seem to grasp that expectation.

After looking at her vocal architecture, it seemed possible that something physical might be causing these lapses in mental acuity. Using software especially designed to reveal biomarkers indicative of Alzheimer's, two vocal spectral evaluations were conducted. In both scans a BioAcoustic genetic marker for Alzheimer's was evident. This category of Alzheimer's concerns the reduction of nitric oxide to the brain causing a decrease in cell signaling and cellular respiration. Other BioAcoustic factors include progesterone (supports memory), GABA and cholesterol (which support brain tissue and neurotransmission).

BioAcoustically Speaking, it may be prudent for Nancy Pelosi to check-in with her wellness provider to see if conventional technology can ascertain any predisposition for Alzheimer's as a basis for her inability to grasp reality, do math or be sensitive to the disposition of the public she serves.

Novel research relating to the analysis of vocal frequencies has been conducted using Human BioAcoustic case studies since the early 1980s, resulting in the corollary that states “persons with similar toxins, genomic syndromes, diseases, traumas, and psychologies have similar, if not identical, vocal anomalies.” MIT, Duke University and the Definitive Guide to Alternative Medicine have been involved in providing additional Human BioAcoustic information to the public.

In light of the many questions concerning Nancy Pelosi's mental capacity, a representative of the Institute of BioAcoustic Biology was asked to complete a vocal frequency evaluation to determine if any information could shed light on any potential Alzheimer's that Pelosi may be experiencing.

Although reluctant, in light of the political implication that such a report might have, an evaluation was conducted to examine the likelihood that Pelosi's bizarre behavior - that even contradicts her own behavior – could be identified.

BioAcoustic comments:

Fauci fancies himself as an intellectual who is smarter than those around him. He has very few emotions to spend on others welfare and likes physical and intellectual control.

He is weak - accused of not caring about others' plight and lack of appreciation from others.

He needs a definite purpose that utilizes his intellect. It is his emotion's weakest perspective, especially when his words are challenged. He is emotionally unstable when it comes to physical fruition of his ideas.

He is stymied by not having things his way and naïve about what justice really is. He wants his way physically.

Points of Importance, Attention and Consequence

You know where your physical things are, even when others don't understand your system. You like control of your physical environment and have admirable stamina to get things accomplished. You plan well and want to see that your plans are carried out. It is easy for you to see the faults in others but don't always know how to get your point across politely. You expect others to take your suggestions seriously and gracefully. You like nice things and you are not averse to working hard to obtain them.

You may appear to overestimate your own value to those around you because your self-approval is solid. When you think things through from an internal perspective, your philosophical opinions are very much appreciated. You challenge others' opinions with good reason. You want to have information confirmed and tend to teach by intellectually adapting your behavior to be a good example for others.

Your highest note is associated with the expression of what you consider to be your physical domain, along with dominating your physical environment, the expression and integration of appropriate perception and action, the ability to assess a situation quickly, the expression of Self-Approval and Self-Worth and issues of digestion, enzyme and energy production.

You are often haunted by thoughts of what you should have done. You may be caught once in a situation, but you aren't often caught twice without a proper answer. Verbal arguments and loud talking often distress you. People who use their position of authority to manipulate others disturb you to a point of action. You often think you should do more than you have time to. Your motivation is mostly mental. Ideas come to you in very odd moments when you are distracted by a task. It would take a lot of planning to get everything done that you want to. Being able to prioritize what needs to be done emotionally is not always easy for you, but you can just shut down when you are overwhelmed. Your metabolism shows to be a weak point in your vocal print.

Points of Communication, Complications and Complaints

Keeping everything where you can find it and ready for use is important to you. Putting physical things in order is a peaceful pastime for you. You like to be aware of what you have or don't have on hand.

Your spirituality comes from deep within - without you having to think much about it. You don't always speak up, but you have strong opinions.

You tend to express your ideas in terms of benefits to others. You prefer to have enough time to take pride and pleasure in what you accomplish. You can work well with others and are often put in a leadership position.

You have a strong sense of justice, fairness and Truth. Bullies and breaches of trust disturb you at a deep spiritual level. Without realizing it, you may tend to run over people who don't obviously stand up for themselves. It is hard for you to recognize when you are exerting your own needs by downplaying the needs of others.

You need to be able to appreciate your environment, whose comfort needs to be balanced with pleasing colors and functionality. You like your working environment to be efficient with things readily available.

You can easily be distracted from carrying out your plans by a more exciting prospect. You don't seem to have enough time and energy to get everything done that you want to accomplish. You would rather people come to you and ask for help instead of assuming you have the time to assist them.

You wish for the best which sometimes leads to statements of hope instead of statements of fact. You may need more than one chance to express yourself to get it right. Practice speaking your ideas before you enter dialogue. Meditating about a situation or playing it over in your mind will clarify your stance and help you clearly represent your ideas. Being in stress will likely affect your breathing. You trust until you get hurt, even though making people earn your trust is more logical.

You like praise, but don't always know how to accept it humbly. You don't always know what words to use to express what your real needs are. You would rather they just be provided. You wish someone could understand you without demanding a lot of conversation.

Points of Cooperation, Learning, Opportunity and Growth

You tend to fight authority, particularly when you perceive that others are being threatened. You work hard to see that justice is instilled in those around you. You can become physically weak when people take advantage of you or yours but only after you have taken care of the situation. You love justice and truth and work hard to see that these qualities are upheld. You love a happy ending that includes justice, physical restitution, and emotional fulfillment.

You love truth and justice and try hard to see that people are compensated for their efforts. You love a happy ending and like to think the world is fair and balanced. Your strong sense of justice needs a cause/outlet. You are more likely to fight for the rights of others than for yourself.

Your sense of self-approval depends on what you have accomplished. You want to work to improve yourself physically but find excuses to put it off. How others see you physically is important to you even if you don't claim it to be.

You have more ideas that you can physically get done. You have no trouble starting something just to see if you can do it. You learn easily from your own mistakes. You don't tolerate the repeated mistakes of others well. You have a good spatial memory. You can easily lose the big picture because you pay close attention to detail.

You like reciprocal relationships but often give more than you receive. You can be incredibly generous if your generosity is appreciated. You give of your time and organizational skills easily for a good cause.

You have a natural knack for planning and like helping others do for themselves. Working for a cause usually puts you out front because of your organizational skills.

You don't mind working to make your environment a place of enjoyment and peace. Working physically toward spiritual balance needs to be a part of your life. What others have is not a concern for you.

Spiritual laws and what's RIGHT are more important than man's laws. Protecting people's feelings is very important to you. Your ability to help others through emotional turmoil is admirable.

You have the intuitional ability to hear beyond the words people are speaking. You are guided by an inner source of strength about what you believe. Actively seeking the answers of life is a priority to you.

You have good intention about bringing your plans to fruition. You seem disorganized to the casual onlooker. You would like more options about your physical surroundings.

You are often too busy to think about or plan for the unexpected. Carrying the burden of thinking about it all and doing it all at the same time is heavy. Stress about getting things done can keep you from having the energy to complete the task.

Your self-approval is often improved by appreciation from others, and to your own detriment, you sometimes put the opinions of others ahead of what you think about yourself. You would rather take criticism than give it. Not knowing the "why" of a situation can cause you great concern about your own involvement in the outcome.

You value spiritual justice and accept the idea that people choose their own lessons and punishment. You work toward healing the gap between spiritual law and man's law. Your physical health is closely related to your spiritual health. What you want to do and what you feel obligated to do is often in conflict.

You can go deep within to find answers about your direction in life. Being perceived as a solid and resourceful person is important to you. You strive to balance what others want from you with what you know to be your destiny.

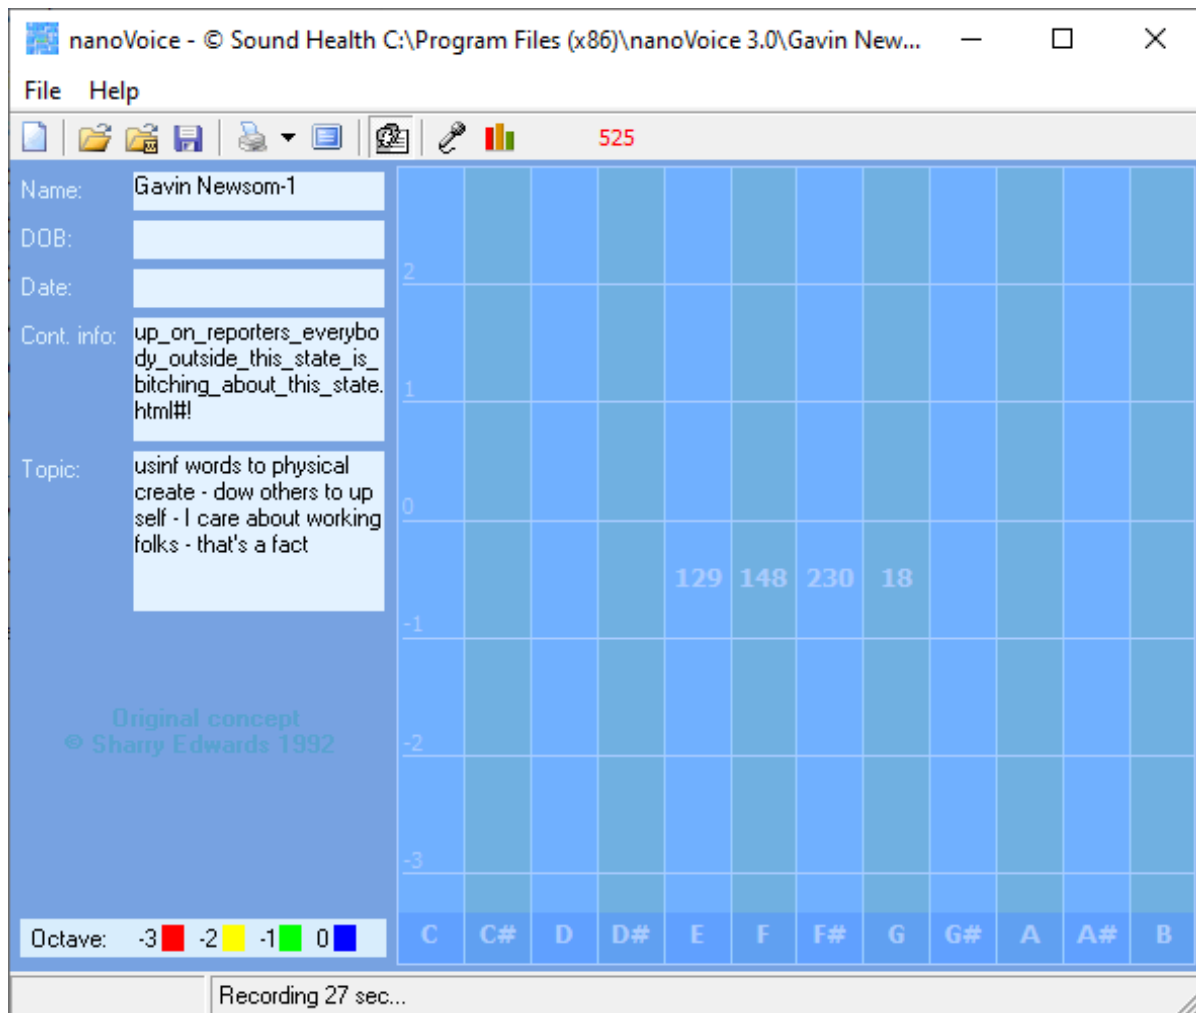

You are more likely than others to resent people who use power trips to get their own way. You value your ability to use power for the right reason at the right time and have a good grasp of when you should use your influence for others and when you should use it for yourself. Others look to you for leadership, but you don't always want to be in that position.

You plan well but are sometimes short on the follow through because there just doesn't seem to be enough time to get it all done. The cooperation of others is essential to accomplish all that you conceive. You limit yourself with impatience when others get in the way of your plans.

There are indications that issues with cellular oxygenation may need monitoring. Identifying which foods are most compatible with you is important to your digestive health. The process of digestion needs to be considered via enzyme evaluation.

Expressing your true emotions is a private matter for you unless justice is involved. You would just as soon that people keep their opinions about you to themselves. Being comfortable is more important to you than your image.

You have no hits for the notes of C, C#, D, D#, G#, A, A# and B. You push yourself and others to finish the job, and you love new ideas that mean you can have a project to work on. It is easy for you to see the faults in others but don't always know how to get your point across politely. If you ever had to lie to see justice done, you would do it, but your sense of justice does not always jive with the law.

Your highest note is associated with the expression of duty to work and accomplishment, along with the ability to see the flaws in a plan and make it right; the integration of appropriate perception and action; the ability to assess a situation quickly; expression through words, both written and oral; and the world of creative self-expression.

You do not need structure to be comfortable. The right words at the right time can sometimes elude you because of all the internal dialogue. Thinking about an action is not the same as doing it, so go ahead and send that little gift, card or note.

Points of Communication, Complications and Complaints

You take pleasure in changing things for the better and can get satisfaction out of being able to help others find and correct mistakes. You can use words very creatively, inspire people using stories and demonstrations and find what you need, so organization isn't necessary.

Jerry Sandusky

Sandusky, former coach of Penn State's football team, who has been accused of sexual misconduct with young boys, answered very blunt questions from Bob Costas.

Link: <http://video.msnbc.msn.com/rock-center/45298030#45298030>

Sandusky's vocal print is very much like those of Roger Clemens (taking steroids) or Michael Phelps (smoking pot), in which they were ultimately found guilty but believed that no one had a right to accuse or question them about their actions.

The charges against Sandusky must be taken much more seriously because they involve the sexual exploitation of children.

From the information in the vocal print, Sandusky was going to be found guilty. Like Phelps, he was not remorseful about what he did, only sorry that he got caught. There are very telling clues in his voice.

Four vocal profiles were done using two recordings, all showing the same lack of forthcoming. The voice print indicates that Sandusky was withholding information and thought he had a right to molest these children; he didn't consider what he did as sexual and was unbalanced and scattered in his responses to Costas' questions.

His deepest regret was that he then felt he would be less appreciated, and that is the clue to his personality – appreciation. His need for self-approval demanded appreciation. He had incredibly high fantasy scores of appreciation compared to other vocal prints. Average values for each note are 42. Sandusky showed scores of 488 (when asked if he was a pedophile), 252 (when asked about the reputation of Penn State now), 185 (when asked about what was witnessed by others when he was in the shower with a young boy) and 847 (when asked if he was sexually attracted to young boys).

The voice was most scattered when he was being asked what others reported about his actions in the showers with young boys. This disarray in the vocal frequencies could indicate the same disarray in his thinking and emotional patterns.

Why are adults showering with children? There likely needs to be a set definition of what "sexually attracted" means to most people and what it meant to Sandusky. It may be similar to Bill Clinton's response when asked if he had sex with Monica Lewinsky. He answered that he did not have "sexual intercourse with that woman." He left out the part about the penetration with a cigar and the oral sex. In the Clinton/Lewinsky scandal a strict definition of what happened was not sexual intercourse. The vocal print indicates that there was a discrepancy between what Sandusky was saying with his words and what his vocal profile unveils.

Points of Importance, Attention and Consequence

You want everything done, but you do so much that some things don't get done on time. You can be fussy about your physical space. It needs to satisfy you and no one else. Sometimes you spend a lot of energy trying to get even the smallest detail right the first time. It is important to you that spirituality be a part of everyday life.

You think that feeding the mind is just as important as feeding the body. You are aware of how painful thoughtless words can be. You can use words to persuade the minds of others. If you ever had to lie to see justice done, you would do it but your sense of justice does not always jive with the law.

Using vocal expressions to misdirect a query is easy for you and you can use the high or low of your voice to direct people how to treat you. You can convey a great variety of expressions using vocal nuance instead of words.

Your highest note is associated with the expression of physically prioritizing what you need and want to accomplish and personal control over what happens in your physical environment, and the expression of your internal perspective of service to self vs. humanitarian needs. The spirit of your inner core resides with your ability to take quiet time for yourself. Your highest note also deals with expression through words, both written and oral, as well as the world of creative self-expression.

Sometimes you think you might as well be invisible when you spend your energy to help others because they don't seem to be listening right now. You want to do something about the mess the world is in but just don't seem to have the energy. Your leadership ability is hampered by lack of opportunity. Note that thinking about an action is not the same as doing it, so go ahead and send that little gift, card or note. You like pointing out the mistakes of others but sometimes have a hard time receiving the same type of constructive criticism. You like nice things in your life and admire people who you think have "class." Your motivation is mostly mental and ideas come to you in very odd moments when you are distracted by a required task. It would take a lot of planning to get everything done that you want to accomplish.

Points of Communication, Complications and Complaints

You can organize and prioritize in your head. It may not look that way to others, but it is your mode of operation. You like to organize yourself so that everything is at hand and easy to utilize. It is particularly bothersome when people use or borrow your property without permission.

You need to be able to appreciate your environment, whose comfort needs to be balanced with pleasing colors and functionality. You like your working environment to be efficient with things readily available.

You seek guidance from many sources both inside and outside of yourself. You value spirituality in all that you do and actively seek to bring spirit into your interactions with others.

You like to contemplate an issue before you speak up and are sometimes reluctant to take the lead. You have good ideas but are sometimes reluctant to speak up, and you like the idea of leadership, but sometimes take on more than you expected to contribute.

You know how to get things done, but don't always have time to deal with the details. Remember that planning something is not the same as getting something done. Thinking and doing need more balance.

Points of Cooperation, Learning, Opportunity and Growth

You dislike being accused of something you did not do because it hurts your spirit. When you are satisfied with your decision, you no longer need to talk about it. You can influence others from a spiritual perspective.

You can perceive what others may be thinking and can use it to your benefit. Your verbal skills make you a good trainer. You can play word games and would make a good mediator.

Organizing your space in your own way is important to you. You delight in seeing the results of what you have physically accomplished. You enjoy the company of people who are comfortable with the natural environment. You have many physical sides that you present at your whim.

Spiritual laws and what's RIGHT are more important than man's laws. Protecting people's feelings is very important to you. Your ability to help others through emotional turmoil is admirable.

You have the intuitional ability to hear beyond the words people are speaking. You are guided by an inner source of strength. Actively seeking the answers of life is a priority to you.

You have a low tolerance for meaningless conversation. You have lots of ideas but prefer to keep them to yourself until you have worked them out completely. Even when you know someone is lying you feel uncomfortable confronting them. You would like the world to be a fair place without the need for arguments.

You don't always take time for the spiritual side of life. Balance between spiritual and physical aspects of your being is important. You can allow your spirit to carry you when the body is weak.

You want it done right the first time. You can see what won't work when others present you with a plan. You like verbal excitement via words and music.

Being aware of how others will take what you say is of concern to you. You have a knack for teaching by demonstration. You can easily take charge of a physical situation using words.

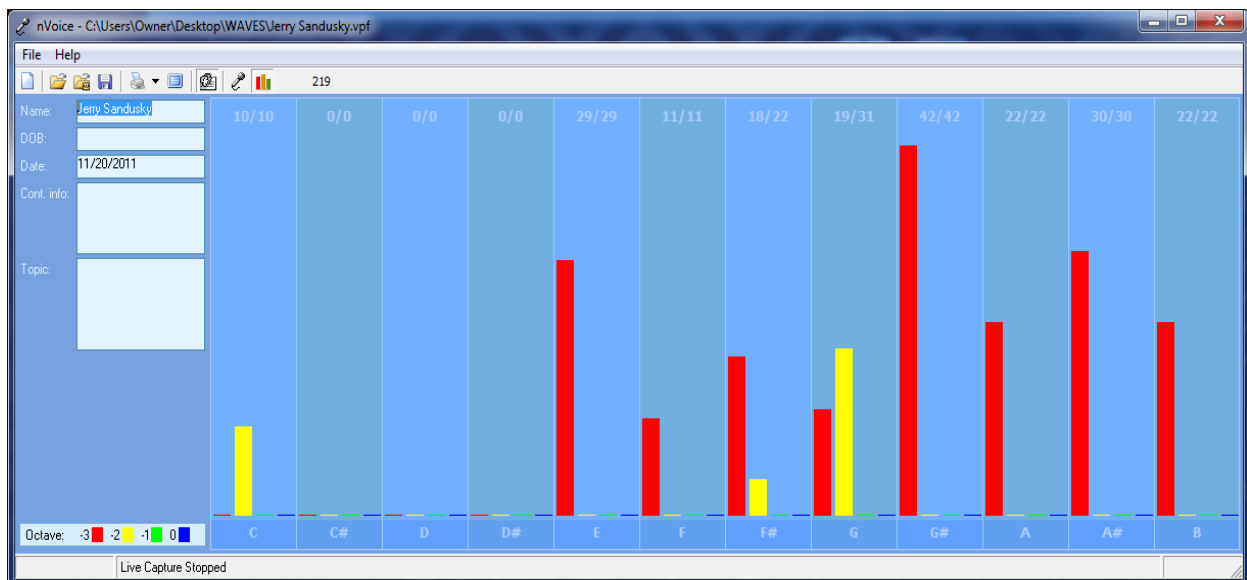

There are indications that issues with cellular oxygenation may need monitoring. Identifying which foods are most compatible with you is important to your digestive health. The process of digestion needs to be considered via enzyme evaluation.

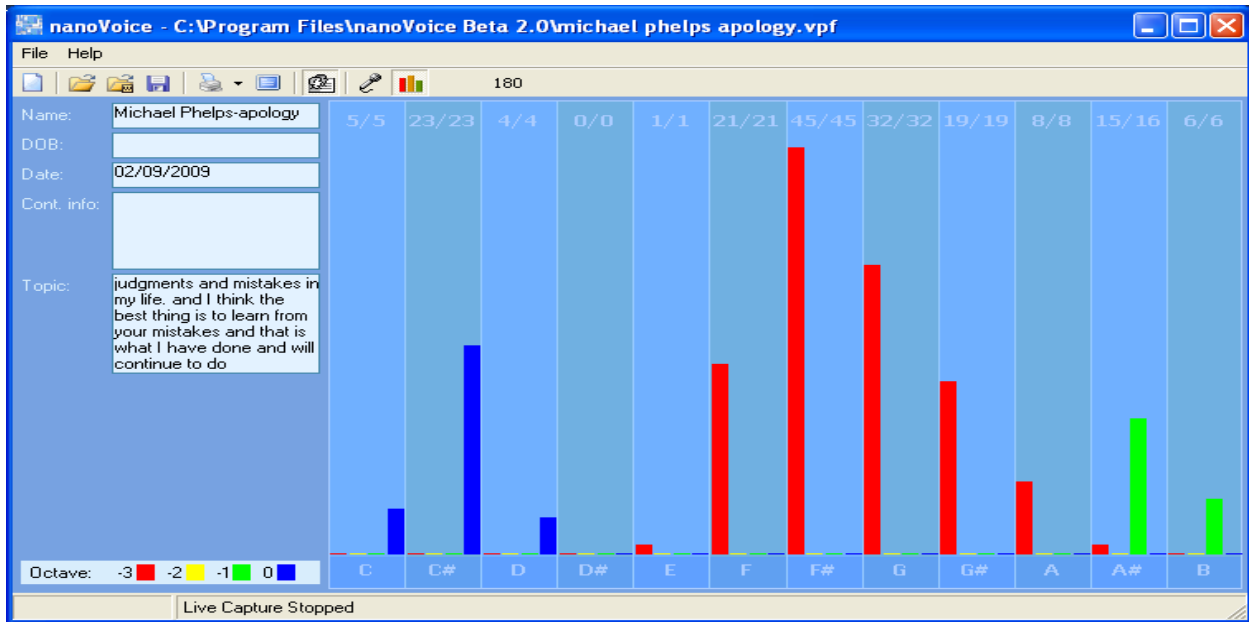

You can get involved quickly without knowing all the facts when you perceive an injustice. Those around you attempt to influence you through your emotions. When you think what has happened is unfair, your first thought is to make things right. You do this without thinking about how your actions will be perceived.

You strive to bring together what others think of you with what you think of yourself. You can second-guess yourself in a heartbeat. You let others convince you that your feelings are in error because you care about them and their opinions.

Benghazi Tragedy - Using Vocal Profiling to evaluate issues of truth, integrity and intention

Note: Most regular followers of the nanoVoice software are aware of how this software can be used to identify personality traits including attitude, honesty and attempts at cover-up. It is important to observe that what is not obvious in a nano evaluation is just as important as what is present. If you are not familiar with the nanoVoice software, there is a two-hour class and other educational materials available to the public at nanoVoice.org because YOU HAVE A RIGHT TO KNOW.

Vocal Profiling evaluation of Hillary Clinton:

Average # hits: 42

Overt Perspective: Intellectual for a planned purpose

Major Emphasis: whole- to right-brained, intellectual perspective, presenting a plan using words unbalanced with management view. Notes of E and A# are unbalanced, indicating possible deception.

Lost Emphasis: ego, help to/for others, outcome for all concerned, useful physical outcome.

Computer Printout

Points of Importance, Attention and Consequence

It is easy for you to see the faults in others, but you don't always know how to get your point across politely. You push yourself and others to finish the job. You love new ideas that mean you can have a project to work on. If you ever had to lie to see justice done, you would do it, but your sense of justice does not always jive with the law.

Your graph indicates an unbalance between appropriate perception and action management. The ability to quickly assess intellectual situation levels is noted.

Your highest note is three times the average, indicating an over-emphasis on perception. The ability to see the flaws in a plan resides with this chart. Your highest note deals with expression through words, both written and oral, especially for future/fantasy layers.

You can sometimes do too much for others in the hopes of helping them change. You may be caught once in a situation, but you aren't often caught twice without a proper answer.

Points of Communication, Complications and Complaints

You can use words very creatively and inspire people using stories and demonstrations. You have a strong sense of justice, fairness and Truth from a future perspective. You can get satisfaction out of being able to help others move in the direction that you see as positive.

As a natural leader, you sometimes get stuck with more than your share of the work. You do what you do in your mind first, based on your own agenda of what you see in the future. You know how you want things to look and work to make it so.

Voice analysis time domain charts can be taken very literally when using the numeric grid. When the filled blocks are fragmented, so too are the vocal frequencies of the speaker. Scattered frequencies indicate disparate thought patterns. The lowest, most filled layer (in this case -2) indicates foundation. When separated in the manner shown below, there is a disconnection between the foundational and higher levels of the graph. Frequencies separated in this manner indicate a fantasy or impending future perspective not to be revealed at this time.

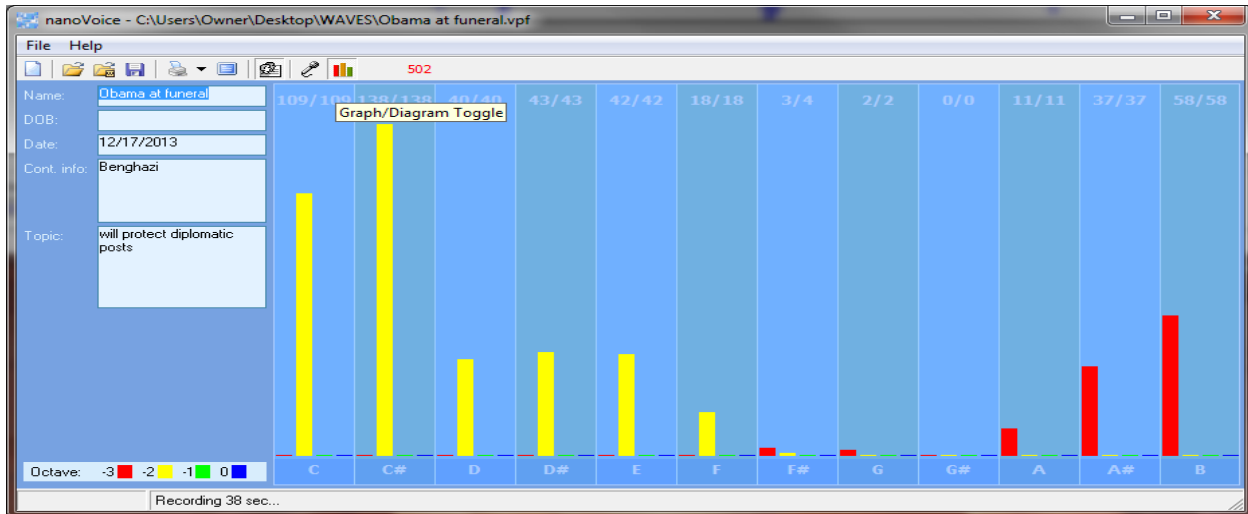

Emphasis in the below numeric grid indicates a fantasy/impending perspective of justice/fairness/truth mixed with words meant to move the listener to the fantasy/impending future as envisioned by the speaker. Little to no ego is involved nor is a perspective that would be security for humanity. The words spoken as the overt message do not match the furtive message of "justice my way" nor will the anticipated outcome be for the benefit for others.

After Hillary declared that the US had nothing to do with the video being blamed for Benghazi, Obama spoke about protecting the security of our citizens and nation. Link: <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=QSooz2wXpes>

Overt Perspective: Intellectual Justice (3X's above average), ego average: 42

Major Emphasis: left-brain, intellectual, ego, truth/justice/fair (overemphasized – possibly “my way” attitude of bullying when you consider the double average of ego). There is some showing of caring for the masses.

Least Emphasis: carrying out plans to a positive, useful conclusion

Computer Evaluation

Points of Importance, Attention and Consequence

Others see you as having leadership potential, but they may resent you for the same reason. You have high ideas and expect the same of others.

Your highest notes show an overexpression of justice, fairness and Truth connected to ego. Self-Power is amply expressed. There is emphasis on service to humanity expressed through over expression of ego. You have average feelings and desire to help others.

Structure is not required for you to be comfortable. Ideas come to you in very odd moments when you are distracted by a required task. Being able to prioritize what needs to be done emotionally is not always easy for you.

Points of Communication, Complications and Complaints

You work well with others and are often put in a leadership position. You tend to teach from an intellectual perspective.

You can easily be distracted from carrying out your plans by a more exciting prospect. You would like to have more time to spend on private spiritual issues. You have a hard time prioritizing what you want to do first.

The foundational octaves in this chart lack emphasis in conceiving and achieving a balance between perception and action that would culminate in a useful, physical outcome. Like the numeric grid of Hillary Clinton, the octaves are separated into two distinct rows. This indicates withholding of information that is being kept separate from what is being conveyed by the words themselves.

Emphasis is on fantasy or future levels of helping others, second only to a large dose of fantasy and future ego. The perception is that he is now helping in a way that will be rewarding for others in the future. He believes what he is saying but knows it is not true, yet he wants what is best: his way.

The notes of A# and E are nearly equal in amount, but not in octave. This would likely indicate that the words spoken are not the message, but the message is being perceived as what the future will be.

Susan Rice

<http://articles.latimes.com/2013/feb/15/entertainment/la-et-st-susan-rice-benghazi-daily-show-20130215>

Susan Rice, US Ambassador to the UN, speaks with TV Host Jon Stewart about the talking points she delivered on several Sunday talk shows blaming a little-known anti-Christian video on the attack in Benghazi.

Overt Perspective: Intellectual information broker

Major Emphasis: left-brained; lacks foundation of her knowledge, verbally providing a plan of perception and action not based on self-knowledge

Least Emphasis: no plan for carrying out anything but information delivery; not attached, neither physically nor emotionally – no sense or need for justice, truth or fairness - lacks creative input

Computer Evaluation

Average # of hits: 42

Points of Importance, Attention and Consequence

You have a high degree of intuition when it comes to listening to what people are not saying. If you ever had to lie to see justice done, you would do it, but your sense of justice does not always jive with the law. It is easy for you to see the faults in others, but don't always know how to get your point across politely (she shares these two traits with Hillary Clinton).

The need for balance between self-expression and self-worth is obvious in this chart. You can express yourself well through words, both written and oral, in overt as well as for the creations of future scenarios. This differs from Hillary, whose strongest expression is in fantasy and future layers.

The highest notes expressed are associated with the use of words to integrate appropriate perception and action, as well as the ability to assess a situation quickly.

Your leadership ability is hampered by lack of opportunity. You don't always express your confusion to the appropriate person, but ideas come to you in very odd moments when you are distracted by a task (she shares this trait with Obama).

Points of Communication, Complications and Complaints

The speaker understands that trust should be earned, but often trusts without reservation. The best lessons are taught by action and example. You can use words very creatively and inspire people using stories and demonstrations.

You can easily be distracted from carrying out your plans by a more exciting prospect (Obama also has this trait). As a natural leader, you sometimes get stuck with more than your share of the work. You know how to get things done, but don't always have time to deal with the details.

You can organize and prioritize in your head. It may not look that way to others but it is your mode of operation. You like to organize yourself so that everything is at hand and easy to utilize. It is particularly bothersome when people use or borrow your property without permission.

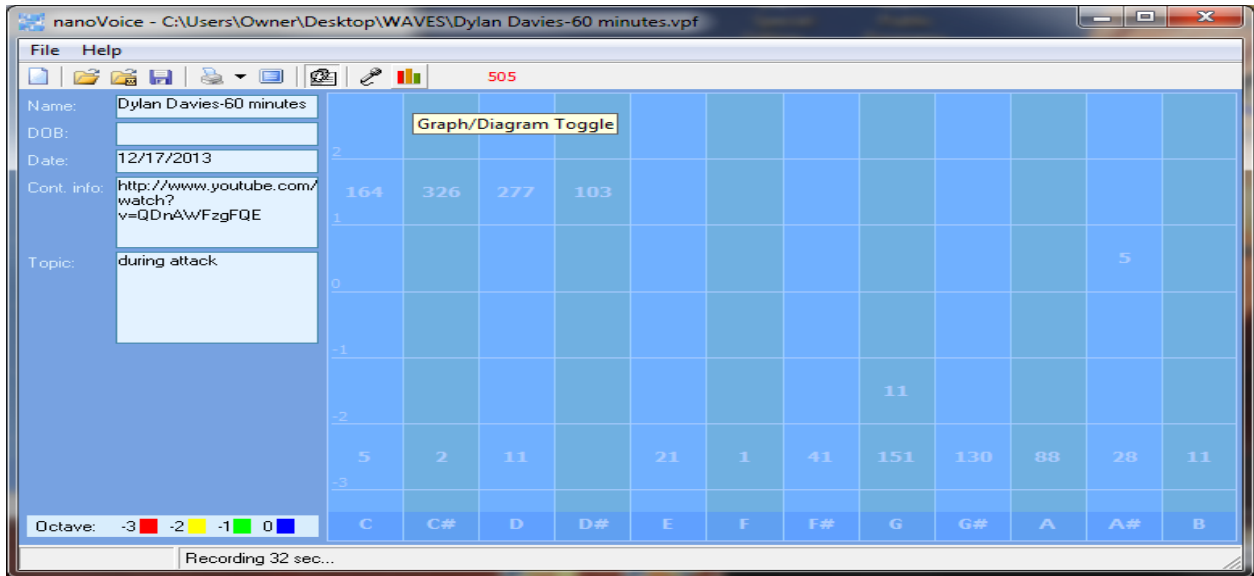

You can push yourself to get things done. Creating new projects from the ideas you generate is rewarding. You take pleasure in changing things for the better.

You can be talked out of your own opinions if solid evidence is presented because you are open to new ideas. You can sometimes feel criticism too quickly and too personally because you want to be more aware of self-issues.

You can be very hard on yourself - taking blame or responsibility - that does not really reside with you. You sometimes fail to defend yourself because you don't want to criticize the opinions of others. In your desire to be of value to the growth of others you will learn that doing for others too quickly is not good for them.

You wish for the best which sometimes leads to statements of hope instead of statements of fact. You may need more than one chance to express yourself to get it right.

You do for others before you do for yourself. It is a struggle sometimes to decide what you really think and what part belongs to someone else because you are so empathetic.

Summary of intent via BioAcoustic Personality software:

Both Obama and Hillary Clinton have an intellectual “storytelling” attitude toward the Benghazi. They are actively withholding information and hope that all will turn out well, but that hope is not based on any foundational evidence. Ego and justice – their way – is emphasized.

Rice is doing what she was asked to do for personal gain. She did not ask, nor did she want to know, the truth of the situation. Her motivation is an elevation of her own position.

Morgan Jones is foundational in his thinking and planning. He is concerned for others and ready to act for their physical benefit. There is some fantasy ego involved in his telling of the phone conversation, but very little in his warnings about the lack of safety for the compound that was attacked.

 Message sent to Simon & Schuster after 60-minute appearance by Dylan Davies aka Morgan Jones

Link: <http://mediamatters.org/print/blog/2013/11/14/report-cbs-benghazi-source-has-disappeared-afte/196904>

In the message which was sent on Friday morning to Simon & Schuster vice president Jennifer Robinson, Davies said someone had threatened to harm his family if he continued to defend his account of events in Benghazi to the media. The email was obtained by The Daily Beast.

The timing could not have been worse. Last week, CBS's 60 Minutes, which had interviewed Davies for a report on Benghazi that aired last month, apologized to its viewers and pulled the report. After 60 Minutes walked away from Davies, Simon & Schuster on Friday announced they would be pulling the book from stores.

In all of this, Davies has not spoken to the media. Friday's email, which was sent before Simon & Schuster announced its decision to pull the book, provides some clues on his decision to stop talking.

Davies wrote that on Sunday, November 3 at 4:00 a.m., he was hand-delivered a note to his home address in Wales that said, "Stop talking now or your wife and son will disappear." In the email to Robinson, he went on to say, "Due to this threat I will not discuss the book with anyone under any circumstances for the foreseeable future; I am not prepared to put my family in danger. I stand by my story; however, I understand that it continues to be rubbished, which I expected."

Thank you for taking this opportunity to experience the nVoice™ computer program. As you speak into the microphone, the computer will catalog your words into musical note patterns. Your printout will reflect the twelve notes of the musical scale - C, C#, D, D#, E, F, F#, G, G#, A, A# and B, plus the octave(s) in which you speak. The notes, octaves and general architecture of your vocal graph are used to create a computerized nVoice Personality Profile interpretation for you. Each of these notes has general characteristics which are explained in the chart below. The database used for your analysis has been developed over the last twenty years as we collected data. We would appreciate feedback as to how you think your profile matches the REAL you.

For this vocal profiling, your emotions can greatly influence the interpretation. If you would like information about a variety of subjects, take several voice samples, keeping with one subject for each one. Every printout will be "flavored" by the subject you talk about.

Remember that each written report will reflect what you say as well as what you don't say.

Sometimes you will find conflicting statements on a report. This indicates that these same conflicts reside within your personality. As you talk about different subjects, you will be able to determine the conflicts and joys of each subject.

If you doubt the accuracy of your nVoice Personality Profile, ask a friend who will tell you the truth about how others perceive you.

Senator Josh Hawley questions Merrick Garland over a school board memo that threatens parents with federal crimes should they speak out against local school board members – Garland claims he has not seen the memo.

Hawley showed a photo of a parent being manhandled because he, the parent, was attempting to speak out about his daughter being assaulted in a girls’ restroom by a male student at the school.

Garland’s response is purely intellectual with a close regard of how future events were going to be affected.

Garland had “goal” repercussions in mind and how they were going to affect his ego. His response was one-sided with emphasis on the note of A#, and his emphasis was how this looked emotionally to others.

He likes rescue mode, but for rewards.

His response is weak, and the memo has been withdrawn. He shows a lot of Biden traits toward incentive of accomplishment and feels like he is protected.

Vulnerability: Prove him wrong intellectually

“Vaccines are good for the economy,” says Biden.

Abundant amount of delusional fantasy.

Hogwash! This is deliberate attempted brainwashing. His pattern emulates that of a religious zealot.

His vocal print indicates that he feels he has the right to play God on one hand, but is unaware that such a notion is total fantasy. Or is he being used?

Biden either absolutely knows what he is doing or that it is fantasy but does not care.

His information is multidirectional and scattered.

If someone with a chart like this wanted to go into business with me, I would run fast in the other direction. That person is not grounded; their thoughts are more than scattered.

Throughout his charts, as time went by, more ego slipped in. As he perceived acceptance, he allowed more of his own need to emerge. Ego is represented by the note of “C.” A score of 42 for each note is normal. When notes are scattered and unconnected on a chart, it indicates that the words and intentions are scattered and unconnected. This gap is too large and denotes that his need to help is in his mind, not a part of reality.

Points of Importance, Attention and Consequence

You know where your physical things are, even when others cannot understand your system. You like control of your physical environment. You appreciate others who recognize your ability to be of service. You have high ideas and expect the same of others.

Sometimes there is conflict between your inner ideals and what you want others to think of you Your highest note is associated with the expression of your internal perspective of service to self vs. humanitarian needs. The spirit of your inner core resides with your ability to take quiet time for yourself. Your feelings and desire to help others resides with this note.

You can sometimes do too much for others in the hopes of helping them change. You do for others before you do for yourself. It is a struggle sometimes to decide what you really think and what part belongs to someone else.

Defining your own ideals and what you want from life is the first step to not following a wrong road. You can see what is best for others but sometimes ignore what is the best for you. You tend to learn by example. Your ability to just "kick back" can cause stress for those around you. Some days it just feels good to sit back and do nothing. Having someone help you get started gets the job done faster. Being able to prioritize what needs to be done emotionally is not always easy for you.

You can just shut down when you are overwhelmed. Your metabolism shows be a weak point in your vocal print.

Points of Communication, Complications and Complaints

Seeing every side of an issue is important to making the right decision that may be for the betterment of all concerned. You can easily put yourself aside for the benefit of others. You can be good counsel for others if you allow them to keep their own systems intact and not insist, they follow yours.

Working to improve yourself is a strong issue. You seek information about yourself that allows you to be resourceful in your interactions. You approve of. You are not likely to allow yourself to be pushed around by other people's opinions. You attempt to teach by your actions.

You can convince others with words - spoken and written - and use words very creatively. You can inspire people using stories, whether true or fantasy, and bring facts together well. If you are feeling well, you can change mental direction in a heartbeat. Your circulation and nervous system are involved in your ability to stay with a foundational topic.

You plan to get things organized as soon as you finish doing what is important. You know how you want things to look, but sometimes do not have the energy/enthusiasm to make it so. Too much energy is spent taking care of other people's issues/things.

Your spiritual side may be neglected because of the responsibilities you hold. Taking time for yourself is important, but you do not often do it. Allowing all that you do to be for the benefit of all concerned, even if it stresses you personally, is the best solution for you overall.

You wish for the best which sometimes leads to statements of hope instead of statements of fact. You may need more than one chance to express yourself to get it right.

Practice speaking your ideas before you enter a dialogue. Meditating about a situation or playing it over in your mind will clarify your stance and help you clearly represent your ideas. Being in stress will affect your breathing.

Points of Cooperation, Learning, Opportunity, and Growth

You tend to fight authority particularly when you perceived that others are being threatened. You work hard to see that justice is instilled for those around you. You can become physically weak when people take advantage of you or yours but only after you have taken care of the situation. You work hard to see justice is afforded to those you love. You love a successful conclusion that includes physical restitution, and emotional fulfillment.

You try hard to see that people are compensated for their efforts. You love a successful conclusion and like to think the world is fair and balanced. You can easily be persuaded by the words of others.

Your powerful sense of justice needs a cause/outlet. You are more likely to fight for the rights of others than for yourself.

You are willing to take the lead when things need to get done. Your ability to have an idea and get it done is admirable. You have a balance between your need to have credit for accomplishments and your ability to get things done. You tend to let your accomplishments speak for you.

You have the power and ability to get things done. You sometimes take on more than you can do in the time allotted. You have pride but sometimes impatience to see the best job done.

You can feel self-criticism quickly because you have high expectation of Self. You like to accomplish a lot and are sometimes disorganized because of all the projects to do simultaneously. Your physical environment needs to suit your needs not the opinions of others. Your comfort zone suffers when you do not have command over your physical domain. Before you feel comfortable you must be familiar with your physical surroundings and where things can be found. You often lose things because you do not have time to consider all the materials you deal with.

Carefully evaluate what people will need to hear when you want to get your point across. You need to have facts to back-up what you present to others as Truth. Words speak louder than actions to you.

You know what needs to be done to gather your energy toward the end goal before you start. Spiritual right is more important than man's laws to you. You dislike a gossip particularly when someone's reputation is being bandied about.

Planning and carrying through your plans are an important aspect of your personality. Others respect your opinions about your projects even though they may argue with your suggestions.

You can use words to help others find their path. You can go to a deep internal space using self-dialogue. You can talk others into carrying out the details. You can envision a result but do not want to be required to explain everything in detail.

Bringing plans to fruition is important to you. Your sense of physical honor is high. A lack of physical prowess and resources can keep you from doing what you planned.

You do not always take time for the spiritual side of life. Balance between spiritual and physical aspects of your being is important. You can allow your spirit to carry you when the body is weak.

You need time for inner thought, and you often put others ahead of yourself. Inner dialogue is important to seeing who you want to be.

Your self-approval is often improved by appreciation from others. To your own detriment, you sometimes put the opinions of others ahead of what you think about yourself. You would rather take criticism than give it. Not knowing the "why" of a situation can cause you great concern about your own involvement in the outcome.

You plan well and can supervise your plans into fruition. You have balance between perception and action. You have high expectations of others because of your own ability to get things accomplished.

You can go deep within to find answers about your direction in life. Being considered a solid and resourceful person is important to you. You strive to balance what others want from you with what you know to be your essential destiny.

Stress can literally take your breath away. You tend to promise more than you have time to deliver. You do not always have the energy to carry out what you intended to do. You can get excited when you talk about an idea but can easily lose interest if you already know the outcome.

The desire and ability to be a leader is not often recognized until you speak up. You do not always do things because you want to but because it is expected of you. You tend to give too much or too little of yourself. Reciprocal appreciation is important to you.

You are hit hard at a soul level when justice does not prevail. Contemplation of what you want for your life and those around you will bring peace of spirit. Trusting in spirit may come hard for you or may be too easy because you jump from not questioning to total questioning. Balance between Truth and Spirit must come from within. Listening to others will give you ideas but will not satisfy you.

Vice President Joe Biden: Democrats will keep Senate

By Kevin Bohn and Brian Rokus, CNN

updated 2:29 PM EST, Mon November 3, 2014

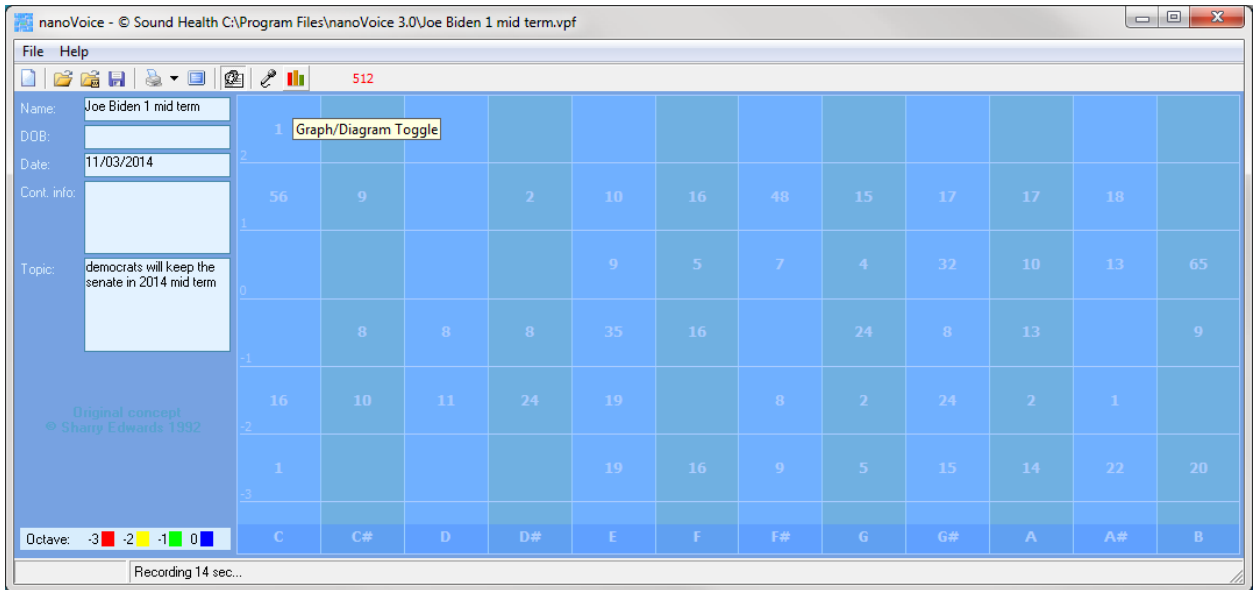

<http://www.cnn.com/2014/11/03/politics/joe-biden-senate/>

In a November 3, 2014 interview, Vice President Biden stated that he did not believe the predictions that the Republicans would take over most of the US Senate. That interview was used to confirm/refute his words.

Biden: “First of all, I do not agree with the odd makers. I predict that we are going to keep the senate.”

BioAcoustic Vocal Profiling uses the frequencies of the voice to determine the intention and sincerity of a person’s words.

In Biden’s case, his words are hogwash. The entire print lacks foundation, integrity, or sincerity. The information is scattered and the prevalent intention is information serving ego. High ego is shown in a basic level as well as one of fantasy. He does not believe his own words, and is just being self-serving.

Points of Importance, Attention and Consequence

You have lofty ideals and expect the same of others. If you ever had to lie to see justice done, you would do it, but your sense of justice does not always jive with the law. You can be fussy about your physical space. It needs to satisfy you and no one else. Sometimes you spend a lot of energy trying to get even the smallest detail right the first time.

Your highest note is associated with service to humanity and human spirit; your feelings and desire to help others; expression through words, both written and oral; the world of creative self-expression; the expression of physically prioritizing; and personal control over what happens in your physical environment.

Ideas come to you in very odd moments when you are distracted by a required task. You do not always express your sense of confusion to the appropriate person. You can sometimes do too much for others in the hopes of helping them change.

Points of Communication, Complications and Complaints

It is particularly bothersome when people use or borrow your property without permission. You sometimes help others to the detriment of yourself. Your emotions run strong and can influence your health. You can use words very creatively. You can inspire people using stories and demonstrations.

You can be extremely hard on yourself - taking blame or responsibility needlessly. It is hard for you to understand why people take your peaceful nature as being an easy target. You wish for the best which sometimes leads to statements of hope instead of statements of fact.

Gloria Borger Reports – Exclusive: VP Biden Speaks to CNN – article below

Fort Lauderdale, Florida (CNN) -- Vice President Joe Biden is not buying the growing consensus heading into Election Day that Republicans are poised to take control of the Senate.

"I don't agree with the oddsmakers," Biden said in an exclusive interview with CNN Chief Political Analyst Gloria Borger. "I predict we're going to ... keep the Senate."

But even if Republicans do win the chamber for the first time in a decade, Biden did not seem to think the victory would have much impact on the administration's priorities.

"I don't think it would change anything, in terms of what we're about," he told Borger. "We know what we have to get done the last two years. And -- quite frankly -- going into 2016, the Republicans must decide whether they are in control or not in control. Are they going to begin to allow things to happen? Or are they going to continue to be obstructionists? And I think they're going to choose to get things done."

Biden's comments come as Republicans appear to have the momentum going into Tuesday's elections. New polls over the weekend showed key races moving in the GOP's favor, especially in Iowa, where Republican Senate candidate Joni Ernst's lead over the Democratic candidate is growing.

The vice president has played a crucial role in the administration during this election season, appearing with Democratic candidates across the country at a time when President Barack Obama's popularity is waning. Biden was in Florida this weekend campaigning with Democratic gubernatorial candidate Charlie Crist as part of a trip that also took him to California and Nevada.

Biden's rigorous campaign schedule has raised questions about whether he will run for president in 2016, particularly if Hillary Clinton decides to enter the race.

Though Biden would not say whether he would run for president, he made clear that he would not base the decision on Clinton's plans.

"That's not the reason not to run or to run," he told Borger. "The question is...am I convinced I am best positioned of anyone else to lead the country the next four years?"

In the more immediate future, Biden said he did not see the White House changing how it did business if the GOP won the Senate majority.

"We have to be more direct and clearer about exactly what it is we're looking to do," he said. "And look, we're -- we're ready to compromise."

Biden added, "I think they're going to be inclined -- because the message from the people, and I'm getting it all over the country, is they're tired of Washington not being able to do anything."

While Biden has traveled to dozens of races this year, Obama has mostly stayed in Washington because many Democrats in tight races did not want him to campaign with them. That, Biden said, is up to individual lawmakers.

"It all gets down to what the specific issues in that-- in that district are, or that state is. And each senator makes a judgment about whether it'll be-- he thinks it's helpful or hurtful," he told CNN. One reason Democrats are facing such headwinds this year is because of polls showing voters angry, afraid, and mad at Washington.

"The public is concerned and frightened because it's a frightening world. A lot has happened," he responded, pointing out that problems that are eased or resolved -- such as the crisis in Ukraine -- get less attention.

So, should the public not be worried?

"I think the public should not be as anxious as they are," Biden told Borger. "But it's understandable why they are. There is no existential threat to the United States right now. There are fewer than five cases of Ebola in the entire United States of America. The American public gains confidence in the fact of the way this is being managed; that science does matter."

He went on: "You look at what's happening with ISIS. ISIS is not an existential threat to something happening to someone in the United States of America. It is a fundamental problem overseas, but it is confusing and frightening. And it is understandable. We must figure out-- we, the President and I, must figure out how to better communicate exactly what is being done. That is part of the problem. That is part of the dilemma"

As 2016 chatter intensified, Biden said he is focused on his job right now.

"There's plenty of time to make that decision," he said. "There really is. I mean, look, everybody talks about how, you know, everything is going to be gone by the summer. And I don't see that at all." Borger asked where he is in his decision-making process.

"I just haven't focused on (it)," he said. "I haven't made up my mind what I'm going to do."
Biden said persistent questions about a Clinton campaign do not upset him.
"It really doesn't bother me at all," he said.

But he had some ideas about what a campaign might look like.

"I mean if I run, I'm confident I will be able to mount a campaign that (is)... going to be credible," he said. "And I'm going to be serious."

As President Donald Trump continues to fill his Twitter feed and campaign speeches with attacks on Hunter Biden over his foreign business deals, the former vice president's son defended the ethical implications of his private ventures in an interview with ABC News, but conceded taking a misstep in failing to foresee the political implications on his father's career.

He doesn't think there is anything wrong with his actions and is separated into naïve, fantasy and omnipotent layers. He thinks he will be protected from the reality of his actions. His weak point – he has no respect for truth and justice.

Points of Importance, Attention and Consequence

You want everything done but you do so much that some things don't get done on time. You can be fussy about your physical space. It needs to satisfy you and no one else. Sometimes you spend a lot of energy trying to get even the smallest detail right the first time. You push yourself and others to finish the job. You love new ideas that mean you can have a project to work on. A sense of belonging is important to you. You appreciate others who recognize your ability to be of service. You have high ideas and expect the same of others. Sometimes there is conflict between your inner ideals and what you want others to think of you.

Your highest note is associated with the expression of physically prioritizing what you need and want to accomplish, as well as personal control over what happens in your physical environment, the expression of duty to work and accomplishment, the ability to see the flaws in a plan and make it right, the expression of service to humanity and human spirit and your feelings and desire to help others.

The demands on your life don't leave enough time for you. It is important to consider how your actions influence others. When confronted with what may be untrue, have the courage to go to the source and ask for clarification. You sometimes depend on others to support your place in the world. You can see how a situation needs to play out but you don't want to seem interfering. You don't always express your sense of confusion to the appropriate person when others attempt to deal with you inappropriately. Note that thinking about an action is not the same as doing it, so go ahead and send that little gift, card or note.

You like pointing out the mistakes of others but sometimes have a hard time receiving the same type of constructive criticism. You like nice things in your life and admire people who you think have "class."

Points of Communication, Complications and Complaints

You can organize and prioritize in your head. It may not look that way to others but it is your mode of operation. You like to organize yourself so that everything is at hand and easy to utilize. It is particularly bothersome when people use or borrow your property without permission.

You can push yourself to get things done. Creating new projects from the ideas you generate is rewarding. You take pleasure in changing things for the better.

Seeing every side of an issue is important to making the right decision for the betterment of all concerned. You can easily put yourself aside for the benefit of others. You can be good counsel for others if you allow them to keep their own systems intact and not insist they follow yours.

Your spiritual side may be neglected because of the responsibilities you hold. Taking time for yourself is important but you don't often do it. Allowing all that you do to be for the benefit of all concerned, even if it stresses you, is the best solution for you in the long run.

You don't always know how to fight back to secure what is properly your due. It is hard for you to understand why people take your peaceful nature as being an easy target. If a rule doesn't pertain to you, you don't often bother to object. You very much appreciate those who come to your verbal rescue.

You can find what you need so organization isn't really necessary. You can get by with what is functional and sometimes ignore what needs to be done and just do what pleases you.

Points of Cooperation, Learning, Opportunity and Growth

You love truth and justice and try hard to see that people are compensated for their efforts. You love a happy ending and like to think the world is fair and balanced. Your strong sense of justice needs a cause/outlet. You are more likely to fight for the rights of others than for yourself.

You tend to fight authority, particularly when you perceive that others are being threatened. You work hard to see that justice is instilled in those around you. You can become physically weak when people take advantage of you but only after you have taken care of the situation. You love justice and truth and work hard to see that these qualities are upheld. You love a happy ending that includes justice, physical restitution and emotional fulfillment.

You like reciprocal relationships but often give more than you receive and can be incredibly generous if your generosity is appreciated. You give your time and organizational skills easily for a good cause.

You have a natural knack for planning and like helping others do for themselves. Working for a cause usually puts you out front because of your organizational skills.

You share easily but dislike it when people take, and sometimes depend on what you did in the past to carry you through to the future. You can be disorganized but try not to think about how others might judge you.

You work to see that others are not taken advantage of. Writing that flows freely to you can also help move others towards their own inner strength. Your self-approval depends on living from the inside out - from the core of your being. You have a great ability to learn from your mistakes and move on.

You can use words to help others find their path. You can go to a deep internal space using self-dialogue. You can talk others into carrying out the details. You can envision a result but don't want to be required to explain everything in detail.

You like to plan by talking about how things are to be done. Discussions about people's motives are a source of inspiration. You like to be creative but like to try your ideas with someone you trust first. You tolerate long-winded people because you can see through their pretense to their needs. Your self-esteem comes from what you accomplish and you don't tolerate fools who repeat information they can't defend.

You like to get things done but need a plan first. You don't like people interfering with the way things need to get done and don't mind helping, but you don't want a schedule or plan that is not your own.

You have good intention about bringing your plans to fruition but seem disorganized to the casual onlooker. You would like more options about your physical surroundings.

You are often too busy to think about or plan for the unexpected. Carrying the burden of thinking about it all and doing it all at the same time is heavy. Stress about getting things done can keep you from having the energy to complete the task.

Spiritual justice is important to you and you accept the idea that people choose their own lessons and punishment. You work toward healing the gap between spiritual law and man's law. Your physical health is closely related to your spiritual health. What you want to do and what you feel obligated to do often conflict.

Doing for others gives you satisfaction. A balance between giving and receiving is not always easy for you. You often give more than you receive in return.

Issues with cellular oxygenation may need monitoring. Identifying which foods are most compatible with you is important to your digestive health. The process of digestion needs to be considered via enzyme evaluation.

The balance of pride and a love of humanity keeps you committed and busier than you would like. You can lose interest in a project without warning. You are likely to be put into a position to require others to finish projects because you spread yourself too thin.

You strive to bring together what others think of you and what you think of yourself. You can second-guess yourself in a heartbeat. You let others convince you that your feelings are in error because you care about them and their opinions.

You can use words to persuade the minds of others. If you ever had to lie to see justice done, you would do it but your sense of justice does not always jive with the law. Using vocal expressions to misdirect a query is easy for you. You can use the high or low of your voice to direct people how to treat you and you can convey a great variety of expressions using vocal nuance instead of words. You push yourself and others to finish the job.

You love new ideas that mean you can have a project to work on. A sense of belonging is important to you. You know where your physical things are located, even when others don't understand your system. You like control of your physical environment and have admirable stamina to get things accomplished. The demands on your life don't leave enough time for you. It is important to consider how your actions influence others. When confronted with what may be untrue, have the courage to go to the source and ask for clarification. You can sometimes do too much for others in the hopes of helping them change.

It is a struggle sometimes to decide what you really think and what part belongs to someone else because you sometimes depend on others to support your place in the world.

You don't always express your sense of confusion to the appropriate person when others attempt to deal with you inappropriately.

Implanted Microchip, Klaus Schwab, World Economic Forum and The Great Reset

Interviewer: Today, at the end of this, we are talking about chips that can be implanted. When will that be?

Schwab: Certainly in the next ten years. And at first we will implant them in our clothes. And then we could imagine that we will implant them in our brains, or in our skin. And in the end, maybe, there will be a direct communication between our brain and the digital world. What we see is a kind of fusion of the physical, digital and biological world.

Interviewer: We call someone, we don't even have the reflex to take a device, it's done naturally, the technique continues the body.

Schwab: Yes, you talk and you say: "I want to be connected with anyone now." And first you have the personalized bots, and I saw that Mr. Zuckerberg predicted that at the end of the year he will have this robot, his personalized butler that is at his disposal.

Interviewer: Like in Downton Abbey, we will have our personal robot butler, our servant, our slave?

Schwab: Yes, but there is a difference. It is a servant that with artificial intelligence learns, and that is not only your assistant for manual work but that can really be an intellectual partner of you.

Quote #1

Question: My understanding is that you went out with this protector of yours who swore that you were his adopted godson.

Soros: Yes. Yes.

Question: Went out, in fact, and helped in the confiscation of property from the Jews.

Soros: Yes. That's right. Yes.

(George Soros interviewed by Steve Kroft, 60 Minutes, CBS, 20 December 1998)

George Soros – One Evil Human

Steve Kroft of '60 Minutes' penned an article critical of George Soros?

DAVID MIKKELSON

PUBLISHED 4 OCTOBER 2012

The Truth:

Steve Kroft didn't write the "one evil human" commentary about George Soros.

A writer named Jim O'Neill penned the commentary in 2009. The Canada Free Press, a conservative news site, published it under the headline "Soros: Public Enemy #1."

O'Neill argued in the commentary that the global financial meltdown, the radicalization of the Democratic party and America's moral decline could all be traced back to George Soros: What we have in Soros is a multi-billionaire atheist with skewed moral values and a sociopath's lack of conscience. He considers himself to be a world class philosopher, despises capitalism, and just loves social engineering.

Uh oh. Can you say "trouble," boys and girls?

Soros is a real-life version of Dr. Evil—with Obama in the role of Mini-Me. Which is not as humorous as it might at first sound. In fact, it's bone-deep chilling.

The commentary has been circulated in chain emails that attribute it to Steve Kroft of "60 Minutes." The confusion seems to come in a section in which O'Neill cites an exchange between Kroft and Soros with key passages taken out:

During an interview with "Sixty Minutes" Steve Kroft, Soros was asked about his "best year:"

KROFT: My understanding is that you went out with this protector of yours who swore that you were his adopted godson.

SOROS: Yes. Yes.

KROFT: Went out, in fact, and helped in the confiscation of property from the Jews.

SOROS: Yes. That's right. Yes.

KROFT: I mean, that sounds like an experience that would send lots of people to the psychiatric couch for many, many years. Was it difficult?

SOROS: Not, not at all. Not at all.

KROFT: No feeling of guilt?

SOROS: No.

That exchange leaves out key statements from Soros to make it seem like he unapologetically helped the Nazis. But in the actual transcript, Soros says:

"...I was 14 years old. And I would say that that's when my character was made...that one should think ahead. One should understand that — and anticipate events and when, when one is threatened. It was a tremendous threat of evil. I mean, it was a — a very personal threat of evil."

The exchange, as recounted by O'Neill, also leaves out a key part of the interview in which Soros explained why he didn't feel guilt for helping the Nazis confiscate property:

I could be on the other side or I could be the one from whom the thing is being taken away. But there was no sense that I shouldn't be there, because that was — well, actually, in a funny way, it's just like in the markets — that is I weren't there — of course, I wasn't doing it, but somebody else would — would — would be taking it away anyhow. And it was the — whether I was there or not, I was only a spectator, the property was being taken away. So the — I had no role in taking away that property. So I had no sense of guilt."

Robin Williams' suicide provides information that will have consequences for millions of Americans

UPDATE: December, 2014

Robin Williams' autopsy revealed the presence of Lewy proteins which are usually confirmed after death. The information below verifies that vocal frequencies can be used to determine the presence of such unwanted proteins using only a 30-second vocal sample. This ability to predict menacing proteins in the brain before death may, at a minimum, provide the opportunity to identify Lewy proteins before symptoms occur. This would be an incredible advantage as more and more people begin to suffer from various stage of Lewy Protein dementia.

Prior to any autopsy reports or announcement by Williams' wife that Robin was suffering from Parkinson's, a frequency domain vocal graph from over a year previous to his death revealed several spikes representing the Frequency Equivalent of Lewy Proteins, debilitating non-native brain deposits.

Robin Williams: What he could not bear to face.

Revealing novel information that may answer why he didn't want to stay.

August 11: Robin Williams' suicide was reported, indicating that he took his own life by hanging, likely due to long-term depression.

August 13: Sharry Edwards, the foremost BioAcoustic Vocal Profiling investigator, appeared on the Joyce Riley Power Hour radio show, offering novel information concerning Williams' death; hoping to help people understand why he chose not to stay. Several issues relevant to Williams' suicide were proposed in terms of BioAcoustic Biology: Using vocal frequencies to distinguish physical and psychological issues of health and awareness.

Three pertinent BioAcoustic findings shared on the Power Hour radio show prior to the public announcement that Williams' suffered from Parkinson's indicated that Williams may have committed suicide because of the threat of serious mental decline due to a cognitive degenerative disease involving Lewy proteins, possibly Alzheimer's.

August 14: The day after Edwards' announcement on national radio about Williams' possible motive, Susan Schneider, Williams' wife, announced that he was suffering from Parkinson's but that he was not yet ready to share that publicly. Schneider's statement to the public explained, "It is our hope in the wake of Robin's tragic passing that others will find the strength to seek the care and support they need to treat whatever battles they are facing so they may feel less afraid."

After Schneider's announcement, Edwards again appeared on the Power Hour and revealed additional information that had been gleaned from William's vocal analysis; including the fact that there may have been other contributing factors that are not as grave or devastating as Parkinson's.

Williams' death was felt by millions who were saddened because he was such a treasured personality, known as wired but compassionate. As the author of this opinion piece and an ardent follower, I want to believe that what Williams could not face was the possibility that he might become so incapacitated that he would ultimately end up disappointing his fans. For many of his admirers it seemed that creating joy and laughter was his life's ambition; the thought of not being there for devoted fans may have been unbearable for him.

Williams' widow stated that he wanted to create hope for others. It is likely no comfort to anyone who admired him or to any of his family members, but it is likely from the information gleaned from his vocal frequencies that Williams, like so many others with Parkinson's-like symptoms, was misdiagnosed.

There is more to the story that Vocal Profiling can reveal. The Institute of BioAcoustic Biology & Sound Health, under the tutelage of Sharry Edwards, MEd. is preparing a lengthy report for release through their web site: www.SoundHealthOptions.com. On the site under "MEDIA" Edwards' has been acknowledged as the pioneer of Human BioAcoustic Biology by the Duke Encyclopedia of New Medicine, 2003 p. 566.

*Frequency Equivalent™ = a term coined by Sharry Edwards meaning a numeric representation of any biological feature or function

Robin Williams Personality Time Domain Computer Evaluation

COMPUTERIZED VERSION

Subject/Topic: talking about being happy on Ellen D show

Missing Notes

You have no hits for the notes of C#, F, and F#. Either you did not take enough samples (100-500 is usually best) or your subject matter did not include thoughts or topics that would involve these notes. See the Note Correlate Chart that appears on the Cover Page for more explanation.

Points of Importance, Attention and Consequence

You appreciate others who recognize your ability to be of service. You have high ideas and expect the same of others. Sometimes there is conflict between your inner ideals and what you want others to think of you. You can use words to persuade the minds of others. If you ever had to lie to see justice done, you would do it, but your sense of justice does not always jive with the law.

Using vocal expressions to misdirect a query is easy for you. You can use the high or low of your voice to give people direction as to how to treat you and you can convey a great variety of expressions using vocal nuance instead of words. Because you are a strong, capable leader you sometimes find it hard to listen, without interruption, to the opinions and ideas of others. Others see you as having leadership potential but they may resent you for the same reason.

People don't usually contradict you because your reaction to perceived criticism can be unsettling to others. Pushing others as hard as you push yourself can lead to resentment. You can step in and take over if a job needs done. Your highest note is associated with the expression of service to humanity and human spirit, along with your feelings and desire to help others.

Your highest note also deals with expression through words, both written and oral; the world of creative self-expression; the expression of self-power and the issues of circulation and stamina.

Physical issues are not your priority. You often have more chores than you can possibly get done. Structure is not required for you to be comfortable. Your ability to just "kick back" can cause stress for those around you. Some days it just feels good to sit back and do nothing. Having someone help you get started gets the job done faster. You can sometimes do too much for others in the hopes of helping them change. You do for others before you do for yourself. It is a struggle sometimes to decide what you really think and what part belongs to someone else because you are so empathetic.

Defining your own ideals and what you want from life is the first step to not following a wrong road. You can see what is the best for others but sometimes ignore what is the best for you. You tend to learn by example.

Points of Communication, Complications and Complaints

You especially want to be appreciated. You sometimes help others to the detriment of yourself. Your emotions run strong and can influence your health.

You seek guidance from many sources both inside and outside of yourself. Spirituality in all that you do is important to you. You actively seek to bring spirit into your interactions with others.

You can convince others with words - spoken and written, use words very creatively and inspire people using stories and demonstrations. You can also think well and spontaneously when the need arises and change mental direction in a heartbeat.

You can find what you need so organization isn't really necessary and get by with what is functional. You sometimes ignore what needs to be done and just do what pleases you.

You plan to get things organized as soon as you finish doing what's important. You know how you want things to look but sometimes don't have the energy/enthusiasm. Too much energy is spent taking care of other people's issues/things.

You can be talked out of your own opinions if solid evidence is presented because you are open to new ideas. You can sometimes feel criticism too quickly and too personally because you want to be more aware of your self-issues. You can be very hard on yourself - taking blame or responsibility - that does not really reside with you. You sometimes fail to defend yourself because you don't want to criticize the opinions of others. In your desire to be of value to the growth of others you will learn that doing for others too quickly is not good for them.

Points of Cooperation, Learning, Opportunity and Growth

You are willing to spend a lot of your time making sure that others learn about integrity, wisdom and responsibility. You challenge yourself much more than others challenge you. You love seeing all the pieces fall together to make it all work.

You want to get to the core of what you really believe to be the right way of life. There are times when you disregard your own needs in order to help others. You want make a difference in their lives to help them move toward a more unselfish life. You are a natural teacher by example. You have a patient outlook on life and can work toward a specific goal without regard for your own needs.

You dislike being accused of something you did not do because it hurts your spirit. When you are satisfied with your decision, you no longer need to talk about it. You can influence others from a spiritual perspective.

You can perceive what others may be thinking and can use it to your benefit. Your verbal skills make you a good trainer. You can play word games. You would make a good mediator.

You like to plan by talking about how things are to be done. Discussions about people's motives are a source of inspiration. You like to be creative but like to try your ideas out with someone you trust first. You tolerate long-winded people because you can see through their pretense to their needs. Your self-esteem comes from what you accomplish. You don't tolerate fools who repeat information they can't defend.

You have the intuitional ability to hear beyond the words people are speaking. You are guided by an inner source of strength. Actively seeking the answers of life is a priority to you.

You do for others just because they ask not because they deserve your time. You do for others more quickly than you do for yourself. Helping people grow emotionally is rewarding to you.

You want it done right the first time. You can see what won't work when others present you with a plan. You like verbal excitement via words and music.

You may go along with the crowd too easily just because it is convenient. You see what is "right" but don't always know how to make it happen. Having the leader run over others who can't express themselves engages deep emotions for you.

Your self-power will increase when you begin to demand equal treatment. Your desire to help others can override your ability to accept from others. Always doing for others first is sometimes a lonely life.

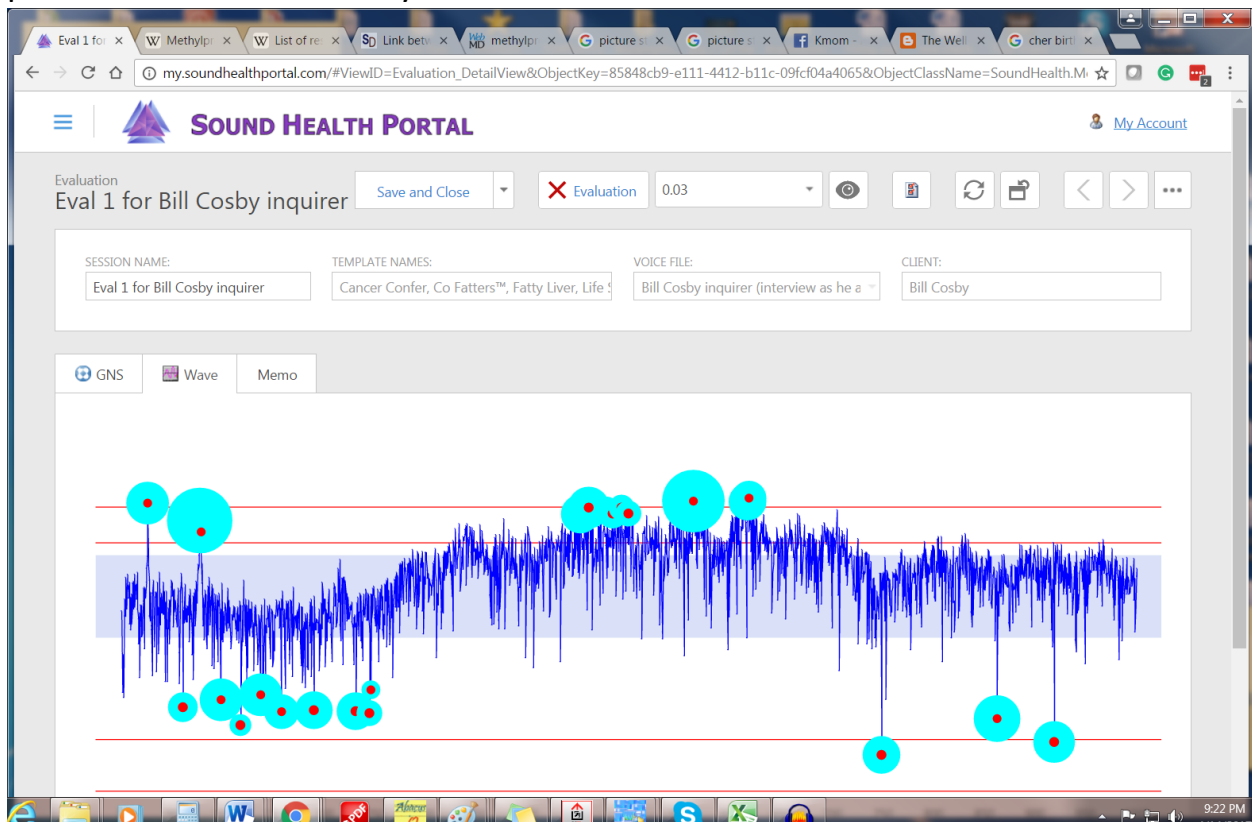

You can get involved quickly without knowing all the facts when you perceive an injustice. Those around you attempt to influence you through your emotions. When you think what has happened is unfair, your first thought is to make things right. You do this without thinking about how your actions will be perceived.

Stress can literally take your breath away. You tend to promise more than you have time to deliver. You don't always have the energy to do what you intended. You can get excited when you talk about an idea but can easily lose interest if you already know the outcome.

Bill Cosby

In his later years, loveable Dr. Huxtable, (aka) Bill Cosby, turned into an aggressive thrill seeker who has been accused of taking serious advantage of several up-and-coming actresses. It is likely that these women went along with Cosby's transgressions thinking he would advance their careers.

Cosby, on the other hand, seems to have had other reasons for his unacceptable behaviors. Like out-of-control gamblers who seek a dopamine "fix" by irresponsible wagers, information gleaned from a BioAcoustic vocal analysis of Cosby's voice showed that he had an uncontrolled need for the natural reward seeking hormone, Dopamine. Often called the pleasure-seeking hormone, Dopamine is often associated with out-of-control depression, addictive personalities and sexual dysfunctions<sup>1</sup>.

Using vocal frequencies to identify potential and present health issues is an emerging science now used by MIT, large insurance conglomerates and several emerging companies, although the Duke Encyclopedia of New Medicine credits the foundational protocols to a small, innovative Ohio biotech company, The Institute of BioAcoustic Biology & Sound Health.

In Cosby's case, and much akin to the plight of Robin Williams, Cosby BioAcoustically suffers from a lack of control of the brain receptors that regulate dopamine. Cosby required more and more dopamine to feel normal which is quite likely the reason he sought more and more sensation and pleasure even though the acts were unacceptable behaviors.

Is Cosby guilty of rape and sexual imposition? His vocal analysis indicates that most likely he is guilty but there is more to the story:

The brain inhibitory transmitter, GABA (gamma-aminobutyric acid), influences many brain hormones including dopamine, serotonin, and norepinephrine. Research by the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill School of Medicine has shown a direct correlation between GABA and dopamine suppression.

In addition to dopamine addiction, which dictates inappropriate thrill-seeking behaviors, there is BioAcoustic evidence that Cosby suffers from many other aspects of dopamine insufficiency including chronic neurodegenerative disease – as did Robin Williams, both by way of Lewy Protein Dementia.

The Institute of BioAcoustic Biology is known for its work that supports the premise that people with similar disease, stresses, personalities, genetic syndromes, toxins, traumas... have similar, if not identical, vocal anomalies.

A vocal anomaly is akin to an out-of-tune instrument of an orchestra that needs fine-tuning. A computerized vocal profile of a person who has been identified as having discordant vocal biomarkers can be provided individualized Management

Reports that can be used by their wellness provider to help identify the distinct issues a person may be experiencing. Inconsistencies in a speaking voice are not generally noticed by a listener but a computer can easily quantify vocal irregularities without much hesitation.

Using comparisons of Cosby's vocal biomarkers, significant brain plaque markers, which are genetic in nature, were present in Cosby's vocal analysis. Indicators of weak eye control muscles and photo-cell deterioration were present.

There is a biomarker indicating inflammatory brain injury that may be recent or decades old; insulin irregularities, low hormones, jaw and lung inflammation as well as weak chew muscles low choline and B12 nutrients. Muscles in stress include weak back, throat/swallow and forearm muscles.

During its decades of data collection, the Sound Health Research arm of the Institute has vigorously investigated and helped the body amend many supposedly incurable health concerns. Macular Degeneration and many others "incurable" homogenous groups have been studied to identify, through vocal data collection and analysis, the root causes and potential cure for diseases for which conventional modalities seem to have few satisfying answers.

John Apsley, MD, DC describes the Institute's work as "breath-taking" and certainly "the medicine of the future when it comes to quantifying health issues that are, as yet, unexplored."

Unreal: AG Barr intervened DIRECTLY to keep Hunter-Biden probe secret
before the election

(Natural News) The biggest difference between Republican and Democratic administrations is that Republican presidents and their Cabinet members play by the rules, while Democratic regimes play to win.

Understanding and believing that explains the difference between Barack Obama and the people he picked to run his Justice Department and FBI, and those picked by Donald Trump.

Obama's people followed his lead and allowed their offices and agencies to become politically weaponized, as evidenced by the massive spy operation launched against Trump's 2016 campaign. Masked as a phony 'counterintelligence' probe, it involved every aspect of the deep state's intelligence and federal law enforcement apparatuses, to include foreign assets (now imagine what all that cost taxpayers).

By comparison, Trump's Justice Department, led by Attorney General William Barr, continues to follow established rules and guidelines to a fault — and it may have even cost our country the greatest president of our lifetimes.

Attorney General William Barr, in the weeks before November's election, instructed prosecutors and senior colleagues to prevent word of investigations into Hunter Biden from becoming public and keep the Justice Department out of campaign politics, according to people familiar with the matter.

Mr. Barr took more steps than previously reported to insulate the investigations, despite calls from President Trump and Republican allies to announce a probe involving President-elect Joe Biden's son Hunter.

Barr and senior DoJ officials even reportedly went so far as to ask prosecutors whether they could trust their staff members to keep quiet about the probe, "warning against issuing subpoenas or taking other steps that might become public," the paper reported.

Several things are problematic about this.

First and foremost, Hunter Biden is corrupt, period, and so is his father, if previously reports detailing business ties to Russia, Ukraine, and Communist China are accurate. And we know that they must be, because the Justice Department is investigating Hunter Biden which is a pretty good indicator something is amiss.

But also, President Trump has been pressing for an investigation into Hunter Biden and, to another extent, "China Joe" Biden as well, for the same reason: Credible allegations of massive foreign influence and corruption. This is really a big deal now considering Democrats and the deep state managed to steal this election from Trump and are ready to install their Manchurian candidate.

Also, according to the WSJ, Barr's Justice Department blew off GOP lawmakers who sent him a letter in October asking Barr to appoint a special counsel to investigate Hunter.

"Insofar as we've seen some divergence between what Trump wants and Barr's vision of the executive, Barr appears to have sided with his vision of the executive and his role at the department," Jonathan Adler, a law professor at Case Western Reserve University, a member of a group of RINO lawyers who have been perpetually at odds with Trump and Barr. (Related: TREASON: Kamala Harris listed as one of "key contacts" for Biden family China business ventures, meaning both U.S. leaders are compromised by Beijing.)

"It doesn't transform him from a villain to a hero, but it suggests he's a more complicated figure than at least some of his critics were acknowledging," Adler continued.

Well, sure, far from a hero. Had the tables been turned, Obama and his corrupt regime — Comey at the FBI and Loretta Lynch as AG — would have eagerly exposed any investigation into their political opponents as well as filed charges if they believed it would help them politically. Everybody knows that.

Democrats play to win.

Over the weekend, a clearly perturbed President Trump lambasted Barr after revelations broke last week that the department launched a probe into Hunter Biden in 2018. Barr never informed him, the president said.

"Bill Barr frankly did the wrong thing," Trump said.

We have to agree. Anything that could have prevented the most corrupt presidential contender next to Hillary Clinton from becoming president would be considered 'fair game,' because it would have been best for the country.

But no. Bill wanted to 'play by the rules.' And now we're truly screwed.

See what President Trump's next moves are going to be at Trump.news.

These are reports on two reporters who attempted to censor Newt Gingrich as he claimed that George Soros is fronting the money and emotions behind the recent protesters who are looting and burning some of our large cities.

I thought we might be able to spot Soros' support formats here but these are from two different perspectives: one shows emotional support for Soros; the other seems to be involved with monetary issues concerning him. On September 28, 2020, Harf refused to answer a question about Biden's gaffs saying that Trump lies are far more important than anything Biden has ever said.

Melissa emotional, Harf Money

Outnumbered cast members Melissa Francis and Marie Harf both attempted to censor Newt Gingrich, - former House Speaker, on Wednesday, Sept 16, 2020. Both objected when Ginrinch stated that Soros funding propped up the violent demonstration in many major US cities.

[Ms Harf was a Senior for Strategic Communication to Secretary Kerr. She also worked with Seth Moulton's D-Mass presidential campaign.]

Perspective: future, reactive, mental

Lacking: has beliefs that she doesn't know how to bring to fruition – lacks emotion here – not accomplishment-oriented – mostly wants to use mentality to control information

Desires control over information she has; has much foundational information about the subject

Weak spot – lack of direct information (E) over physical outcomes

Lack the vision of the information; F, F# stressed - money issues

- Information is scattered and partially disjointed
- Not allowed to complete picture
- Most energy in Justice through the tenets of religion
- Is naïve about managing the information she is addressing
- Lacks ego for specific outcome
- Is involved in an emotional need to make things better – cares about what will support others
- Has words seated in the emotional octave
- Lacks foundation for the subject, mostly on an emotional concern of others
- Not likely a money issue

Missing Notes

You have no hits for the notes of D, D#, E, F, F#, G, G#, A, A# and B. Either you did not take enough samples (100-500 is usually best) or your subject matter did not include thoughts or topics that would involve these notes. See the Note Correlate Chart that appears on the Cover Page for more explanation.

Points of Importance, Attention and Consequence

You can be very stubborn if Truth, justice and fairness are involved. It is sometimes hard for you to understand why others think you are being controlling. Your ability to champion a cause is admirable especially when the cause becomes personal for those you care about. You can become a bully and attempt to control others without realizing it. You can allow others to use your strength and support for their own needs. You tend to stubbornly defend your self-image and opinions, but don't often admit it.

Your strong sense of justice needs an outlet. You have strong opinions about your own opinions. Because you are a strong, capable leader you sometimes find it hard to listen, without interruption, to the opinions and ideas of others. Others see you as having leadership potential but they may resent you for the same reason. People don't usually contradict you because your reaction to perceived criticism can be unsettling to others. Pushing others as hard as you push yourself can lead to resentment. You can step in and take over if a job needs done.

Your highest note is associated with the expression of justice, fairness and Truth. Joint, tendon and connective tissue issues; along with smooth muscle contractions reside with this note. Your highest note is associated with the expression of self-power. The issues of circulation and stamina reside with this note.

Sometimes you think you might as well be invisible when you spend your energy to help others because they don't seem to be listening at the moment. You want to do something about the mess the world is in but just don't seem to have the energy. Your leadership ability is hampered by lack of opportunity. You sometimes depend on others to support your place in the world. You can see how a situation needs to play out but you don't want to seem interfering. You don't always express your sense of confusion to the appropriate person when others attempt to deal with you inappropriately.

Points of Communication, Complications and Complaints

You have a strong sense of justice, fairness and Truth. Bullies and breaches of trust disturb you at a deep spiritual level. Without realizing it, you may tend to run over people who don't obviously stand up for themselves. It is hard for you to recognize when you are exerting your own needs by downplaying the needs of others.

You tend to express your ideas in term of benefits to others. You prefer to have enough time to take pride and pleasure in what you accomplish. You can work well with others and are often put in a leadership position.

Points of Cooperation, Learning, Opportunity and Growth

Your sense of self-power is combined with a strong sense of justice. You will help once but insist that people learn to help themselves. Playing emotional games is not your style.

You tend to think you ought to fight authority to prove personal points of honor even when it costs you. Joining a group that thinks like you do will help bring justice to a situation. Your own self-approval issues can get in the way of expressing your opinions that need to be heard. You can be quick to judge before you gather all the pertinent facts. In most cases it is a lack of understanding your motivations.

You are hit hard at a soul level when justice does not prevail. You actively want to bring spiritual law to your life. Contemplation of what you want for your life and those around you will bring peace of spirit. Trusting in spirit may come hard for you or may be too easy because you jump from not questioning to total questioning. Balance between Truth and Spirit must come from within. Listening to others will give you ideas but won't satisfy you.

The desire and ability to be a leader is not often recognized until you speak up. You don't always do things because you want to but because it is expected of you. You tend to give too much or think too little of yourself. Reciprocal appreciation is important to you.

Jeff Bezos donates 2 billion to protect the planet's trees

BioAcoustic Observations

His primary perspective - carrying out a physical plan by using information in an intellectual avenue.

He wants control over the information and the plan for it.

He is very into emotion-based physical control, but this is not balanced with intellect.

He is not interested in motivating the spiritual needs of others, and matches vocal prints with Biden.

He is interested in creating something physical. A mall in the sky?

He feels stymied if he doesn't get to carry out his physical plans, and is naïve that his plans are workable. He also uses words for control.

Weakness: Being exposed as someone with selfish motives.

Missing Notes

You have no hits for the notes of: A, A#, B. Either you did not take enough samples (100-500 is usually best) or your subject matter did not include thoughts or topics that would involve these notes. See the Note Correlate Chart that appears on the Cover Page for more explanation.

Points of Importance, Attention and Consequence

You know where your physical things are located even when others can't understand your system. You like control of your physical environment.

Your stamina to get things accomplished is admirable. You have a high degree of intuition when it comes to listening to what people are not saying. You have strong opinions about protecting others who don't have the ability to protect themselves.

You will come back again and again to a situation that is unsettled until you find an answer that satisfies you. It is distressing to you when someone attempts to prove you wrong.

You know when you have settled your mind about a situation because you no longer need to talk about it. Being without a reason/cause for a unsettling event can be disturbing and very mentally time-consuming for you. You want everything done but you do so much that some things don't get done on time. You can be fussy about your physical space. It needs to satisfy you and no one else. Sometimes you spend a lot of energy trying to get even the smallest detail right the first time.

Your highest note is associated with the expression of what you consider to be your physical domain, as well as having dominion over your physical environment; the expression of change of the body, mind and/or spirit; seekers of internal Truth; the balance between self-expression and self-worth; the expression of physically prioritizing what you need and want to accomplish and personal control over what happens in your physical environment.

You want to do something about the mess the world is in but just don't seem to have the energy to do it. Your motivation is mostly mental. Ideas come to you in very odd moments when you are distracted by a required task. It would take a lot of planning to get everything done that you want to accomplish. You can sometimes do too much for others in the hopes of helping them change. You do for others before you do for yourself. It is a struggle sometimes to decide what you really think and what part belongs to someone else. Defining your own ideals and what you want from life is the first step to not following a wrong road. You can see what is best for others but sometimes ignore what is best for you. You tend to learn by your own example.

Points of Communication, Complications and Complaints

Being able to appreciate your environment is important to you. Comfort in your environment needs to be balanced with pleasing colors and functionality. You like your working environment to be efficient with things readily available.

Your standards for emotional trust are high and you understand intellectually that trust should be earned, but early on often give trust too easily. You think about how your words will be received before you speak and understand that others' stubbornness of thought is likely a lack of appropriate information about the subject. You can see through people who are trying to convince you that wrong is right - an important lesson learned. You work well behind the scenes, but you expect to be compensated for a job well done, not necessarily in money, but in appreciation.

You can convince others with words - spoken and written - and use words very creatively. You can inspire people using stories and demonstrations and think well and spontaneously when the need arises. You can change mental direction in a heartbeat.

You like to contemplate an issue before you speak up and are sometimes reluctant to take the lead. You have good ideas but are sometimes reluctant to speak up. You like the idea of leadership but sometimes take on more than you expected to contribute.

You can easily be distracted from carrying out your plans by a more exciting prospect. You don't seem to have enough time and energy to get everything done that you want to accomplish. You would rather people come to you and ask for help instead of assuming you have time to assist them.

You can be talked out of your own opinions if solid evidence is presented because you are open to new ideas. You can sometimes take criticism too quickly and personally because you want to be more aware of your self-issues. You can be very hard on yourself - taking blame or responsibility - that does not really reside with you. In personal situations, you sometimes fail to defend yourself because you don't want to criticize others' opinions in your desire to be of value to the growth of others. You will learn that doing for others too quickly is not good for them.

Points of Cooperation, Learning, Opportunity and Growth

You won't generally interfere unless it involves someone you care about. You can hold a grudge until you figure out how to make things right, both physically and emotionally. You don't easily forgive although others may think you do.

You like to plan by talking about how things are to be done. Discussions about people's motives are a source of inspiration. You like to be creative but like to try your ideas with someone you trust first. You tolerate long-winded people because you can see through their pretense to their needs. Your self-esteem comes from what you accomplish. You don't tolerate fools who repeat information they can't defend.

You can use words to help others find their path and can go to a deep internal space using self-dialogue, talk others into carrying out the details and envision a result, but don't want to be required to explain everything in detail.

You actively support equal rights in words, deed and money and use self-power and self-approval as a potent combination to change opinions. You can be very persuasive when it comes to convincing people that their opinions and ideas are right/wrong. You have a balanced sense of self-worth.

You have good intention about bringing your plans to fruition but seem disorganized to the casual onlooker. You would like more options about your physical surroundings.

You like to get things done but need a plan first. You don't like people interfering with the way things need to get done. You don't mind helping but you don't want to be kept to a schedule or plan that is not your own.

Your self-approval is often improved by appreciation from others. To your own detriment, you sometimes put the opinions of others ahead of what you think about yourself. You would rather take criticism than give it. Not knowing the "why" of a situation can cause you great concern about your own involvement in the outcome.

You are hit hard at a soul level when justice does not prevail. You actively want to bring spiritual law to your life. Contemplation of what you want for your life and those around you will bring peace of spirit. Trusting in spirit may come hard for you or may be too easy because you jump from not questioning to total questioning. Balance between Truth and Spirit must come from within. Listening to others will give you ideas but won't satisfy you.

Expressing your true emotions is a private matter for you unless justice is involved. You would just as soon that people keep their opinions about you to themselves. Being comfortable is more important to you than your image.

You can easily use self-talk as a way of self-healing. You would like to be appreciated but often feel awkward handling the attention. You sometimes know the right solutions before you hear all the facts. You dislike being interrupted when you are trying to concentrate or explain.

Kamala Harris

A wave file of a voice shows overall personality vs a time domain recording – this Columbus Day recording shows this priority of action – accomplishment; emotions; intellect; future.

Voice prints put into words and pictures what you perceived all along but have not put into words.

Main expression = control through words/actions – wants physical control

October 2021 - about Europeans taking over America by abusing Native Americans

Overinvolved in planning – lacks ego to be a part of outcomes – lacks empathy – like Biden and China’s President Xi

Leaves out what is inconvenient for her narrative stubbornness - much like Hillary –

Missing Notes

You have no hits for the notes of: C, C#, D, G#, A, A#, B. Either you did not take enough samples (100-500 is usually best) or your subject matter did not include thoughts or topics that would involve these notes. See the Note Correlate Chart that appears on the Cover Page for more explanation.

Points of Importance, Attention and Consequence

You push yourself and others to finish the job. You love innovative ideas that mean you can have a project to work on. A sense of belonging is important to you. You can use words to persuade the minds of others. If you ever had to lie to see justice done, you would do it, but your sense of justice does not always jive with the law.

Using vocal expressions to misdirect a query is easy for you. You can use the high or low of your voice to give people direction as to how to treat you. You can convey a vast variety of expressions using vocal nuance instead of words. You plan well and want to see to it that your plans are carried out. It is easy for you to see the faults in others but do not always know how to get your point across politely. You expect others to take your suggestions seriously and gracefully. Pleasant things appeal to you, and you are not averse to working hard to obtain them.

Your highest note is associated with the expression of duty to work and accomplishment, along with the ability to see the flaws in a plan and make it right; expression through words, both written and oral; The world of creative self-expression; the expression and integration of appropriate perception and action; and the ability to assess a situation quickly.

Physical issues are not your priority. You often have more chores than you can get done. Structure is not required for you to be comfortable. You are often haunted by thoughts of what you should have done. You may be caught once in a situation, but you are not often caught twice without a proper answer. You are often distressed by verbal arguments and loud talking. People who use their position of authority to manipulate others disturb you to a point of action. You often think you should do more than you have time to accomplishment. Note that thinking about an action is different from doing it, so go ahead and send that little gift, card or note. You like pointing out the mistakes of others but sometimes have a challenging time receiving the same type of constructive criticism. You like nice things in your life. You admire people who you think have "class."

Points of Communication, Complications and Complaints

You can push yourself to get things done. Creating new projects from the ideas you generate is rewarding. You take pleasure in changing things for the better.

You can convince others with words - spoken and written. You can use words very creatively and could inspire people using stories and demonstrations. You can change mental direction in a heartbeat.

You can plan for yourself and others. You can easily show others how to put a plan together. You can get satisfaction out of being able to find and correct mistakes.

You can find what you need so organization is not necessary. You can get by with what is functional. You sometimes ignore what needs to be done and just do what pleases you.

You wish for the best which sometimes leads to statements of hope instead of statements of fact. You may need more than one chance to express yourself to get it right. Practice speaking your ideas before you enter dialogue. Meditating about a situation or playing it over in your mind will clarify your stance and help you clearly represent your ideas. Being stressed will affect your breathing. You trust until you get hurt even though making people earn your trust is more logical.

Points of Cooperation, Learning, Opportunity, and Growth

You can use words to help others find their path. You can go to a deep internal space using self-dialogue. You can talk others into carrying out the details. You can envision a result but do not want to be required to explain everything in detail.

You have good intention about bringing your plans to fruition. You seem disorganized to the casual onlooker. You would like more options about your physical surroundings.

You are often too busy to think about or plan for the unexpected. Carrying the burden of thinking about it all and doing it all at the same time is heavy. Stress about getting things done can keep you from having the energy to complete the task.

You have a low tolerance for meaningless conversation. You have lots of ideas but prefer to keep them to yourself until you have worked them out completely. Even when you know someone is lying you feel uncomfortable confronting them. You would like the world to be a fair place without the need for arguments.

The balance of pride and a love of humanity keeps you committed and busier than you would like. You can lose interest in a project without warning. You are likely to be put into a position to require others to finish projects because you spread yourself too thin.

Stress can take your breath away. You tend to promise more than you have time to deliver. You do not always have the energy to carry-out what you intended to do. You can get excited when you talk about an idea but can easily lose interest if you already know the outcome.

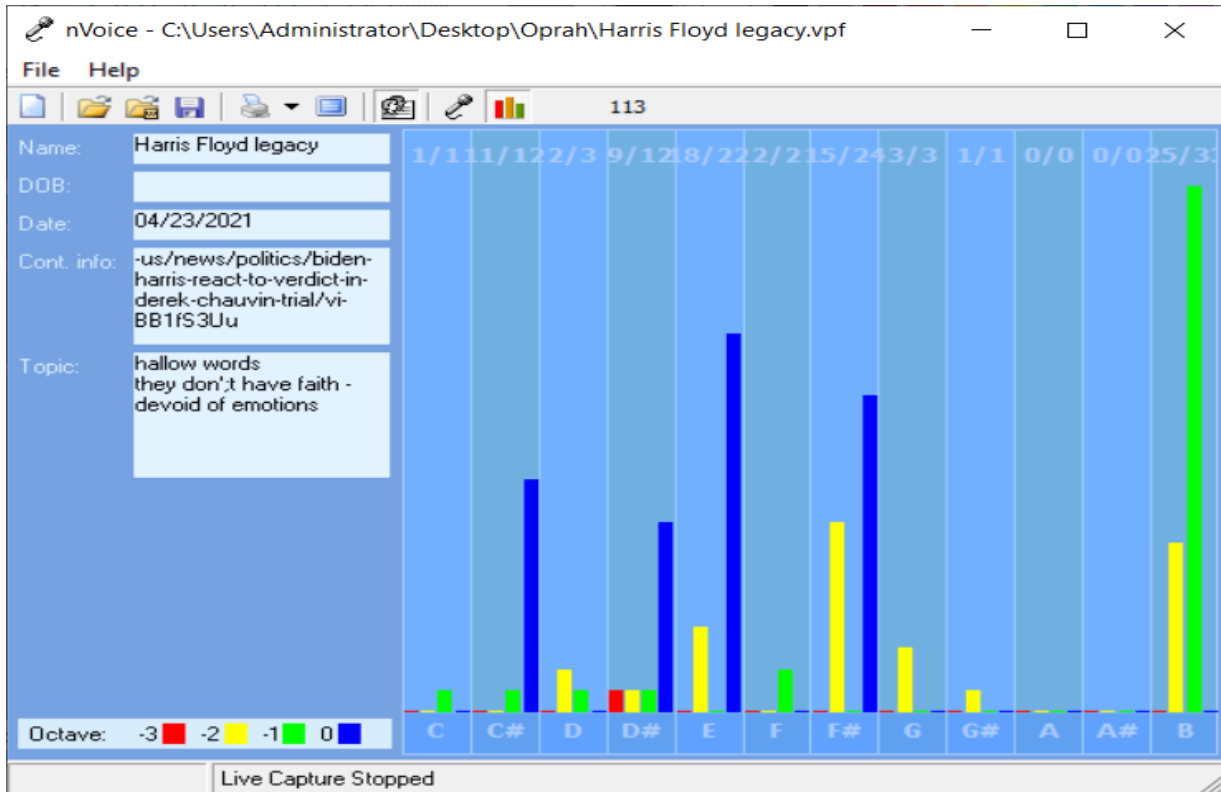

You can easily use self-talk as a way of self-healing. You would like to be appreciated but often feel awkward handling the attention. You sometimes know the right solutions before you hear all the facts. You dislike being interrupted when you are trying to concentrate or explain. It is often hard to get going in the morning.

Missing Notes

You have no hits for the notes of: A, A#. Either you did not take enough samples (100-500 is usually best) or your subject matter did not include thoughts or topics that would involve these notes. See the Note Correlate Chart that appears on the Cover Page for more explanation.

Points of Importance, Attention and Consequence

You appreciate others who recognize your ability to be of service. You have high ideas and expect the same of others. Sometimes there is conflict between your inner ideals and what you want others to think of you. You can use words to persuade the minds of others. If you ever had to lie to see justice done, you would do it, but your sense of justice does not always jive with the law.

Using vocal expressions to misdirect a query is easy for you. You can use the high or low of your voice to give people direction as to how to treat you. You can convey a wide variety of expressions using vocal nuance instead of words. You push yourself and others to finish the job. You love current ideas that mean you can have a project to work on. A sense of belonging is important to you.

Your highest note is associated with the expression of service to humanity and human spirit, along with your feelings and desire to help others; expression through words, both written and oral; the world of creative self-expression; the expression of duty to work and accomplishment; and the ability to see the flaws in a plan and make it right.

Sometimes you think you might as well be invisible when you spend your energy to help others because they do not seem to be listening now. You want to do something about the mess the world is in but just do not seem to have the energy. Your leadership ability is hampered by lack of opportunity. Your ability to just "kick back" can cause stress for those around you. Some days it just feels good to sit back and do nothing.

Having someone help you get started gets the job done faster. You can sometimes do too much for others in the hopes of helping them change. You do for others before you do for yourself. It is a struggle sometimes to decide what you really think and what part belongs to someone else because you are so empathetic. Defining your own ideals and what you want from life is the first step to not following a wrong road. You can see what the best for others is, but sometimes ignore what is the best for you. You tend to learn by example.

Points of Communication, Complications and Complaints

Being appreciated is especially important to you. You sometimes help others to the detriment of yourself. Your emotions run strong and can influence your health.

You can push yourself to get things done. Creating new projects from the ideas you generate is rewarding. You take pleasure in changing things for the better.

You can convince others with words - spoken and written - and can use words very creatively. You can inspire people using stories and demonstrations and think well and spontaneously when the need arises. You can change mental direction in a heartbeat.

You like to contemplate an issue before you speak up and are sometimes reluctant to take the lead. You have clever ideas but are sometimes reluctant to speak up. You like the idea of leadership but sometimes take on more than you expected to contribute.

You plan to get things organized as soon as you finish doing what is important. You know how you want things to look but sometimes do not have the energy/enthusiasm to make it so. Too much energy is spent taking care of other people's issues/things.

You know how to get things done but do not always have the time to deal with the details. Remember that planning something is different from getting something done. Thinking and doing needs more balance.

Points of Cooperation, Learning, Opportunity, and Growth

You do for others just because they ask, not because they deserve your time. You do for others more quickly than you do for yourself. Helping people grow emotionally is rewarding to you.

You are often too busy to think about or plan for the unexpected. Carrying the burden of thinking about it all and doing it all at the same time is heavy. Stress about getting things done can keep you from having the energy to complete the task.

You have good intention about bringing your plans to fruition. You seem disorganized to the casual onlooker. You would like more options about your physical surroundings.

Your self-power will increase when you begin to demand equal treatment. Your desire to help others can override your ability to accept from others. Always doing for others first is sometimes living a lonely life.

The balance of pride and a love of humanity keeps you committed and busier than you would like. You can lose interest in a project without warning. You are likely to be put into a position to require others to finish projects because you spread yourself too thin.

Stress can take your breath away. You tend to promise more than you have time to deliver. You do not always have the energy to carry out what you intended to do. You can get excited when you talk about an idea but can easily lose interest if you already know the outcome.

Missing Notes

You have no hits for the notes of: F#, G, G#, A. Either you did not take enough samples (100-500 is usually best) or your subject matter did not include thoughts or topics that would involve these notes. See the Note Correlate Chart that appears on the Cover Page for more explanation.

Points of Importance, Attention and Consequence

If you ever had to lie to see justice done, you would do it, but your sense of justice does not always jive with the law. You have a high degree of intuition when it comes to listening to what people are not saying. You challenge the opinions of others with good reason.

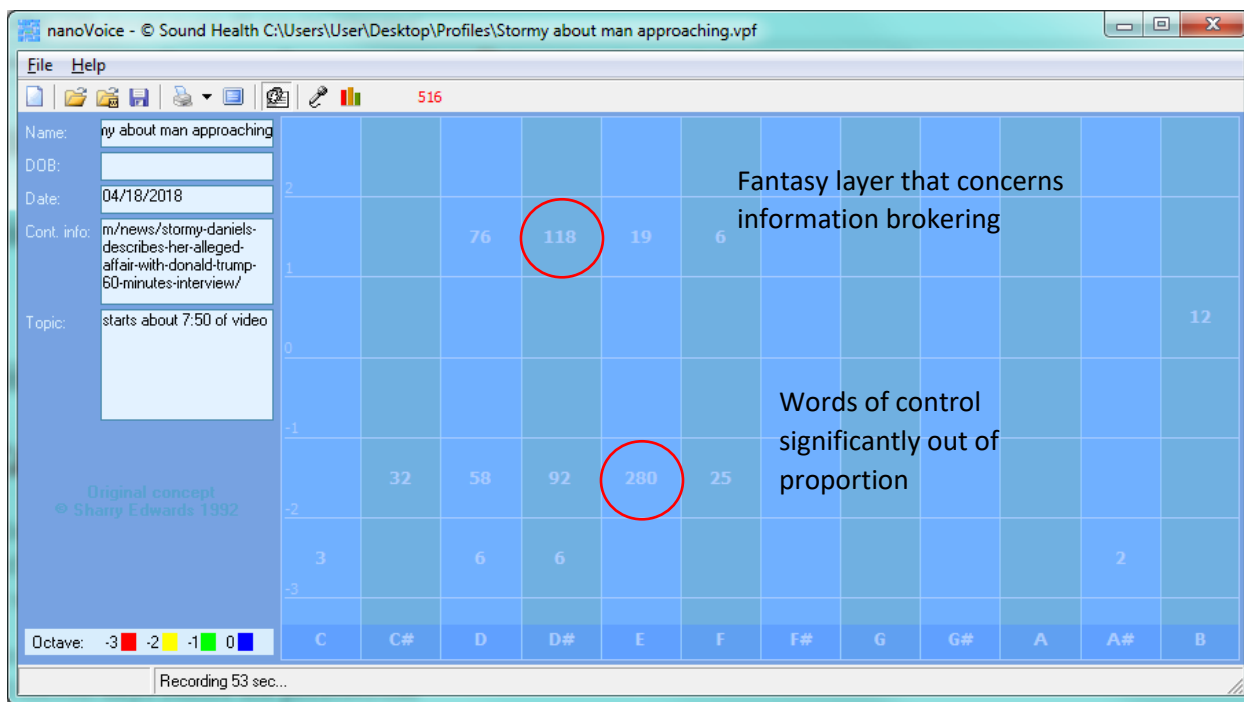

Your highest note deals with expression through words, both written and oral, and the world of creative self-expression; seekers of internal Truth; the balance between self-expression and self-worth; the expression of Self-Approval and Self-Worth; and issues of digestion, enzyme and energy production.

When in doubt, have the courage to go to the source and ask for clarification. Your leadership ability is hampered by lack of opportunity. Those around you will allow you to give too much unless you define your own needs. You tend to do more for others than they do for you.

Points of Communication, Complications and Complaints

You can use words very creatively and inspire people using stories and demonstrations. You understand that trust should be earned but often trust without reservation. You tend to teach by your actions.

You do what you do for the benefit of all concerned, even if it stresses you. As a natural leader, you sometimes get stuck with more than your share of the work. Your connection to universal truths absorbs your time.

Transcript portion of Daniels talking about man threatening here

Stormy Daniels: I was in a parking lot, going to a fitness class with my infant daughter. T--taking, you know, the seats facing backwards in the backseat, diaper bag, you know, gettin' all the stuff out. And a guy walked up on me and said to me, "Leave Trump alone. Forget the story." And then he leaned around and looked at my daughter and said, "That's a beautiful little girl. It'd be a shame if something happened to her mom." And then he was gone.

Anderson Cooper: You took it as a direct threat?

Stormy Daniels: Absolutely.

Stormy Daniels: I was rattled. I remember going into the workout class. And my hands are shaking so much, I was afraid I was gonna-- drop her.

Anderson Cooper: Did you ever see that person again?

Stormy Daniels: No. But I-- if I did, I would know it right away.

Anderson Cooper: You'd be able to--you'd be able to recognize that person?

Stormy Daniels: 100%. Even now, all these years later. If he walked in this door right now, I would instantly know.

Anderson Cooper: Did you go to the police?

Stormy Daniels: No.

Anderson Cooper: Why?

Stormy Daniels: Because I was scared.

Thank you for taking the opportunity to experience the nVoice™ Personality Profiler computer program. As you speak into the microphone, the computer will catalog your words into musical notes and patterns. Your printout will reflect the twelve notes of the musical scale – C, C#, D, D#, E, F, F#, G, G#, A, A# and B; plus the octave(s) in which you speak. The notes, octaves and general architecture of your vocal graph are used to create a computerized nVoice Personality Profile for you. Each of these notes has general characteristics which are explained in the chart above.

Remember that each written report will reflect what you say as well as what you don't say.

The database used for your analysis has been developed over the last twenty-plus years as we collected data. We would appreciate feedback as to how you think your profile matches the REAL you.

For this vocal profiling, your emotions can greatly influence the outcome. If you would like information about a variety of subjects, take several voice samples, keeping to one subject for each one. Every print-out will be “flavored” by the subject you talk about.

You may find conflicting statements on your report, indicating that these same conflicts reside within your personality. As you talk about different subjects you will be able to determine the conflicts and joys of each.

If you doubt the accuracy of your nVoice Personality Profile, ask a friend who will tell you the truth about how others perceive you.

If you print your report in color, there is a possibility that you have one or more of four different colors on your chart - blue, red, yellow and green. Multiple colors on one chart indicate a multi-faceted approach to that subject.

Blue indicates an overall love for humanity, the ability to put others first, an emotional perspective and possible naiveté. A nun or minister type who gives more than they receive.

Yellow indicates mental processing, an intellectual outlook, a logical, cautious perspective. A lawyer type who can see all sides and acts depending on the desired outcome.

Green indicates a need to accomplish, someone who can plan ahead, appears reliable and is ready to go after careful thought. A Farmer type; on the negative side, a con man.

A demo version of this software can be downloaded from
www.nanoVoice.org
along with instructional video
and charts

Red indicates a physical call to action, but without a lot of thought for the consequences, who likes to see and do things first before the rest of the crowd. A Fireman type who can assess a situation quickly and act accordingly.

Each note needs to be matched with a color and its interpretation.

For example someone could have a very high, red note of C – this person might use their ego or strength to get their way without much thought for the outcome. A bully or autocrat.

If the same high C was green that person might use their first-hand experience to manage accomplishing something. A leader by qualifications alone who may or may not have many people skills. A workaholic who has little respect for others' time.

If the high C was yellow the person might want their way because of their education or position. They tend to think they know best for everyone involved. There is usually a disregard for the opinions of others with this politically astute yet authoritarian perspective.

If a high C is blue this is likely to be an emotional leader who champions a cause for the rights of others. This is not always a logical or rational leadership style but more of a charismatic approach. An uncompromising extremist.

Each note can be assessed using the color and note information. Remember that the examples above are for extremes of a note being well above normal.

Nothing is wrong in your voice; what is important is what you do with the information. This evaluation is by no means inclusive but serves to provide a perspective about you as it relates to your chosen topic. Lori Lightfoot – Chicago Mayor Responds to Organized Looting
<https://www.foxnews.com/us/chicago-mayor-lightfoot-reporter-rioters-encouraged-consequences>

A day after looters smashed retailer windows, carried away loads of high-end merchandise and overwhelmed police officers in downtown Chicago, Mayor Lori Lightfoot said the violence was an organized raid and not a demonstration of angry protest.

Lightfoot is a multitasker who knows what is really going on. Most of her energy is about Justice, so she thinks she doing should be acceptable. In my opinion, in her statement that “it is okay to break into high-end stores with U-Hauls standing ready is because people need basic proviisons. No food in the stores that they broke into – why not go to [a] local food bank or grocery store?” she is giving the looters an excuse for their criminal behavior.

There is a large dose of mental ego involved in her actions. Management on large community and small personal spaces is a mental perspective that keeps her moving. Her weak point is having no plan of her own. JUSTICE is her motive on a limited, emotional layer.

Control issues are obvious with a need to control from an emotional perspective. If you want to break up these looting sites, approach her with a plan for justice. Her ego responds to emotions, not force. She is an initiator.

The city’s Magnificent Mile and other shopping districts were hit with widespread theft, vandalism and destruction. Many of the businesses were big-name retailers like Gucci, Nordstrom and Apple. Some were looted just six weeks earlier amid the violent unrest that erupted after George Floyd, an unarmed black man, died in Minneapolis police custody in May. And they all were struggling to deal with the economic impact of the COVID-19 pandemic.

Chicago, like many other U.S. cities, is in the midst of a surge in violent crime. Last month, 573 people were shot in America’s third largest city – at least 58 of them juveniles. There have been 430 recorded homicides through July, which represents a 51% increase over the same period last year. Compare that to New York City, for example, which had just 237 murders despite having nearly three times the population as Chicago.

The aftermath seen at the store Nordstrom on Aug. 10, 2020, following a night of unrest in Chicago.

“When people showed up on Michigan Avenue in the downtown area with U-Haul trucks, cargo vans and sophisticated equipment used to cut metal, and the methods that were used, and how quickly it got spun up...that wasn’t any spontaneous reaction,” Lightfoot told TIME in her fifth-floor offices at Chicago’s City Hall on Tuesday.

Points of Importance, Attention and Consequence

You can allow others to use your strength and support for their own needs. You can be fussy about your physical space. It needs to satisfy you and no one else. Sometimes you spend a lot of energy trying to get even the smallest detail right the first time. You have high ideals and expect the same of others.

Your highest note is associated with the expression of justice, fairness and Truth, as well as Joint, tendon and connective tissue issues, smooth muscle contractions, the expression of physically prioritizing, personal control over what happens in your physical environment, service to humanity and human spirit, and your feelings and desire to help others.

Ideas come to you in very odd moments when you are distracted by a required task. The right words at the right time can sometimes elude you because of all of the internal dialogue. Structure is not required for you to be comfortable.

Points of Communication, Complications and Complaints

You have a strong sense of justice, fairness and Truth. It is particularly bothersome when people use or borrow your property without permission. You sometimes help others to the detriment of yourself. Your emotions run strong and can influence your health.

Barack Obama

Obama THEN and NOW: Vocal Profiling Reveals a Shocking Truth

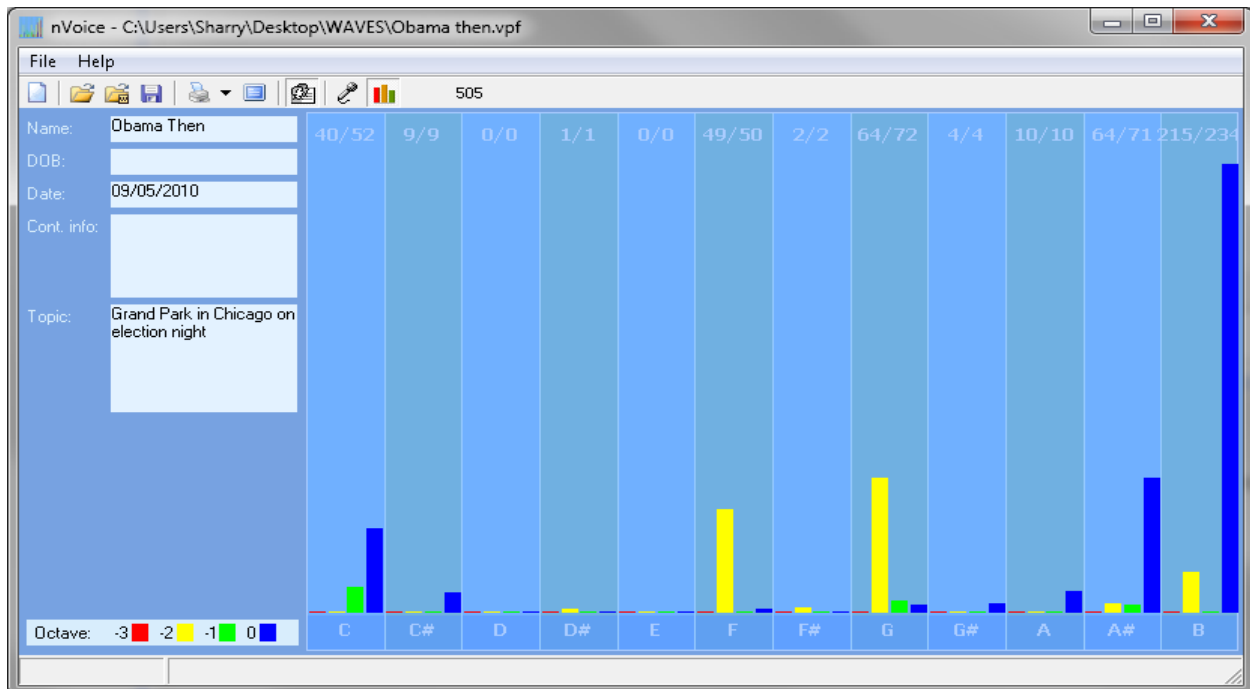

Two recordings of President Obama were used to compare his speech patterns during his 2008 campaign against a recent September 2010 address in which he attempted to blame Republican activities for the current economic situation.

Reference Link: <http://www.cnn.com/video/>

CNN, John King USA – September 3, 2010

Obama's "THEN" recording was taken from his election night speech at Grand Park in Chicago, the night it was confirmed that he would be the next President of the United States.

OBAMA election night transcript – "This is our moment, this is our time to put our people back to work and open doors of opportunity for our kids, to restore prosperity and promote the cause of peace, to reclaim the American dream and reaffirm that fundamental truth that out of many we are one. That while we breathe, we hope, and where we are met with cynicism and doubt and those who tell us that we cannot, we will respond with that timeless creed that sums up the spirit of the people: yes, we can."

Transcript: Obama – "There is no quick fix to the worst recession that we have experienced since the great depression. The hard truth is that it took years to create our current economic problems and it will take more time than any of us would like to repair the damage. Millions of our neighbors are living with that painfully every day, but I want all Americans to remind themselves that there are better days ahead."

COMMENT: It is obvious that these two computerized reports are incredibly parallel. Even though the words have changed, Obama's basic personality is the SAME! This also indicates that he has the same intent across both speeches. Within the tenets of Vocal Profiling, it is highly unusual that such divergent topics can appear to be identical, particularly two years apart.

What might these two divergent topics with identical graphs indicate?

- 1) There was a possible error in the recordings. This was checked and double-checked and the recordings were appropriate.
- 2) Obama knew before he took office what was to happen economically, and he agreed with the actions to be taken. He was even convinced that these economic actions were required.
- 3) Obama has only one limited personality that shows up consistently regardless of topic. This is not true since many Vocal Profiles of Obama show divergent graphs.
- 4) Obama believes his actions are appropriate and in line with his campaign statements. Consider that very little of his economic policy before the election matches his actions after the election.
- 5) Obama's voice was mechanically manipulated to indicate that he had the best interests of the people in mind. This is the only rational explanation. This kind of manipulation has been observed in the voices of other candidates and the technique of voice manipulation is presently being taught in college film courses.

To combat this attempt to deceive the listener, there are more complex techniques that we can use to flush out the real motivations of a speaker.

COMPARISON

Even though the words have changed, Obama's basic personality is the SAME! Not in these two, but in several that have been posted, Obama appears to be very stubborn and intent on carrying out his own agenda of justice for all.

COMPOSITE of THEN

This composite indicates that originally – on the eve of his win, that he was emotionally motivated to move his plan forward. Ego was less than normal (surprisingly) while managing a plan was obvious.

COMPUTER ANALYSIS: You push yourself and others to finish the job. You love new ideas that mean you can have a project to work on. A sense of belonging is important to you. You have an unusual sense of time.

Not having all the information needed to decide stresses you. Your reputation is especially important to you. You will go to great lengths to protect it. You can use words to persuade the minds of others.

If you ever had to lie to see justice done, you would do it, but your sense of justice does not always jive with the law. Using vocal expressions to misdirect a query is easy for you. You can use the high or low of your voice to give people direction as to how to treat you. You can convey a wide variety of expressions using vocal nuance instead of words.

Your highest note is associated with the expression of duty to work and accomplishment, along with the ability to see the flaws in a plan and make it right; the expression of your internal perspective of insight and self-awareness; internal faith, fairness and fulfillment; expression through words, both written and oral; and the world of creative self-expression.

Your ability to just "kick back" can cause stress for those around you. Some days it just feels good to sit back and do nothing. You want to do something about the mess the world is in but just do not seem to have the energy. Your leadership ability is hampered by lack of opportunity. You can sometimes do too much for others in the hopes of helping them change. You do for others before you do for yourself. It is a struggle sometimes to decide what you really think and what part belongs to someone else because you are so empathetic. Defining your own ideals and what you want from life is the first step to not following a wrong road. You can see what the best for others is but sometimes ignore what is the best for you. You tend to learn by example.

NOW - Obama's address to the nation on September 3, 2010

OBAMA – “There is no quick fix to the worst recession that we have experienced since the Great Depression. The hard truth is that it took years to create our current economic problems and it will take more time than any of us would like to repair the damage. Millions of our neighbors are living with that painfully every day. But I want all Americans to remind themselves that there are better days ahead.”

This composite indicates a call to action based on his plan to conduct something physical based on self-ego and personal justice. Ego is left-brained, so he feels it is justified.

COMPUTER ANALYSIS: You plan well and want to see to it that your plans are carried out. It is easy for you to see the faults in others but do not always know how to get your point across politely. You expect others to take your suggestions seriously and gracefully.

Nice things appeal to you, and you are not averse to working hard to obtain them. You want everything done but you do so much that some things do not get done on time. You can be fussy about your physical space. It needs to satisfy you and no one else. Sometimes you spend a lot of energy trying to get even the smallest detail right the first time.

You push yourself and others to finish the job. You love latest ideas that mean you can have a project to work on. A sense of belonging is important to you. Your highest note is associated with the expression and integration of appropriate perception and action.

The ability to assess a situation quickly resides with this note, as well as the expression of physically prioritizing what you need and want to accomplish, personal control over what happens in your physical environment, the expression of duty to work and accomplishment, and the ability to see the flaws in a plan and make it right.

Obama THEN

Obama NOW

This comparison shows a move from emotion to action.

C, C#, and D are about the same – then and now

D# = slight trade in emotions and future overall

E = more emotion in words showing in THEN

F = planning for the future takes over in NOW chart; emotional issues tied to planning

G = shift here – in THEN chart, G is below normal; NOW chart G is above normal

G# = largest change in the chart – for THEN chart G# is well below normal – for the NOW chart G# almost stands alone in direction – Remember G# is the need to produce something physical that is useful and necessary

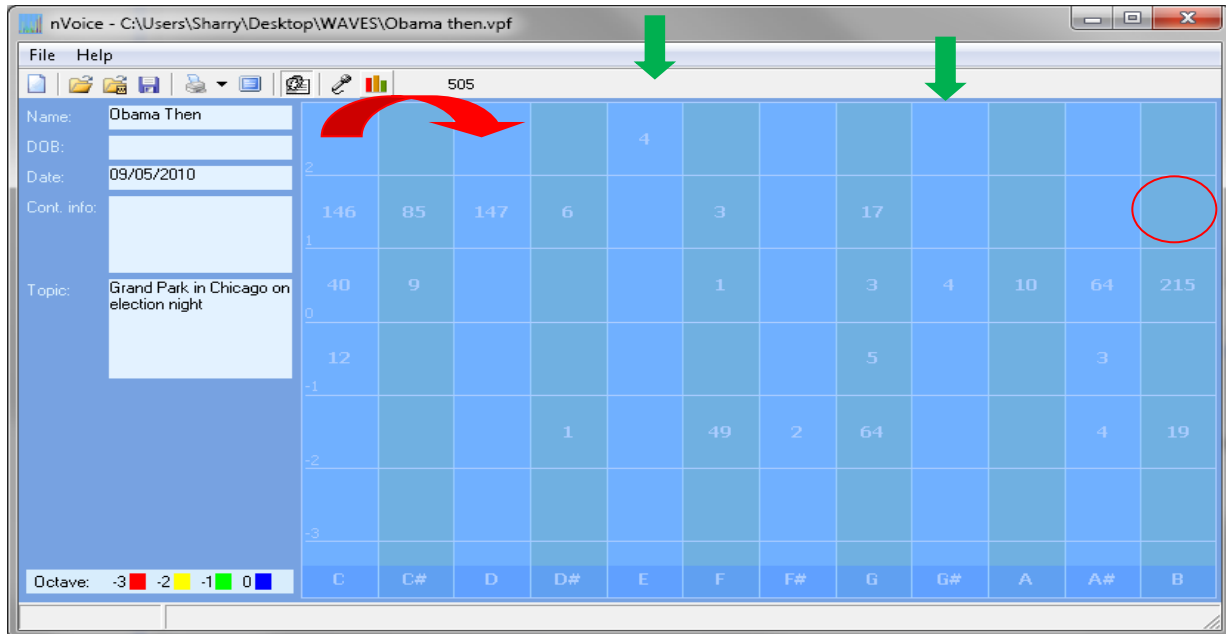

A = shift here from emotion to accomplishment = management with integrity

A# brings in a lot more intellect in the NOW chart – more fight back is also obvious

B = a need to have harmony in his life is more obvious in the THEN chart

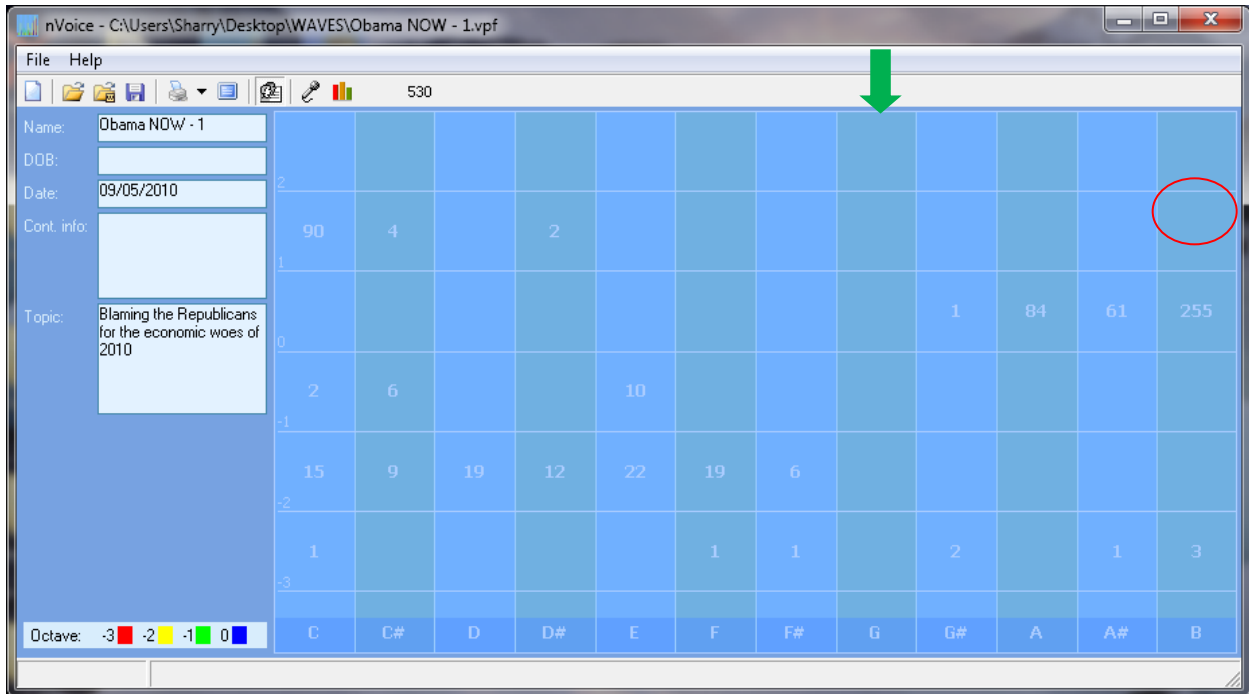

Overall – a switch from blue (emotion) to green (accomplishment)

NUMERIC composite analysis – only using the numeric analysis could we see the differences in the two charts: THEN represents ego; NOW represents martyrdom.

Obama numeric evaluation for “THEN” chart: Using the numeric system of nanoVoice shows more than the colored bars, which only include four octaves. Note that “B” at 215 in the “THEN” chart shows a need to serve humanity; then ego (C) and service to people (D). Note that “E” only appears at the +2 level; this indicates a belief in his words for the greater good. There is no useful plan that needs conducted, which is shown by the lack of “F#” and “G#.”

The nonexistence of any hits in the note of “C” in the -2 octave could indicate that any ego-related emotions are not attached to his gut-level feelings.

Obama's numeric evaluation for "NOW" chart: The note of "B" is the highest at 255, indicating that he has taken on the role of a martyr. He thinks he is sacrificing much for THE PEOPLE and that we are unappreciative. I predicted several weeks ago that after the elections in November 2010, Obama would deliver a plethora of executive orders designed to either push the public to violence and causing a military takeover or "executive order" us out of our few remaining freedoms.

A lack of "G" indicates no physically useful way to conduct the plan into fruition. Obama's voice is regretful and depressed. It is likely that Democratic headway that was being seen in the last few days came from Bill Clinton's influence, not Obama.

Obama blames the media

Recording Date: 08/28/2010

- 776 hidden notes in C# = indicates stubbornness – wants it his way.
- 113 hits on ego = fantasy layer (note of C) – he knows he thinks more of himself than others do.

- A large gap between octaves means he is not telling everything.
- Red hits on the bars indicate reactivity, anger, and spontaneous words.
- The composite of the wave file shows intention.
- In this case, F# is highest, with emotions as the top intention.
F# indicates how something will be conducted. Obama is saying here that he will have it his way, his words will be true, and it will be useful.

Missing Notes

You have no hits for the notes of A# and B. Either you did not take enough samples (100-500 is usually best) or your subject matter did not include thoughts or topics that would involve these notes. See the Note Correlate Chart that appears on the Cover Page for more explanation.

Points of Importance, Attention and Consequence

You push yourself and others to finish the job. You love current ideas that mean you can have a project to work on. A sense of belonging is important to you. You have a high degree of intuition when it comes to listening to what people are not saying.

You have strong opinions about protecting others who do not have the ability to protect themselves. You will come back repeatedly to a situation that is unsettled until you find an answer that satisfies you. It is distressing to you when someone is attempting to prove you wrong. You know when you have settled your mind about a situation because you no longer have a need to talk about it.

Being without a reason/cause for an unsettling event can be disturbing and very mentally time-consuming for you. You plan well and want to see to it that your plans are carried out. It is easy for you to see the faults in others but do not always know how to get your point across politely.

You expect others to take your suggestions seriously and gracefully. Pleasant things appeal to you, and you are not averse to working hard to obtain them. Your highest note is associated with the expression of duty to work and accomplishment. The ability to see the flaws in a plan and make it right resides with this note. Your highest note is associated with the expression of change of the body, mind and/or spirit. Seekers of internal Truth live here.

The balance between self-expression and self-worth resides with this note, along with the expression and integration of appropriate perception and action and the ability to assess a situation quickly.

Sometimes you think you might as well be invisible when you spend your energy to help others because they do not seem to be listening now. You want to do something about the mess the world is in but just do not seem to have the energy. Your leadership ability is hampered by lack of opportunity. You sometimes depend on others to support your place in the world. You can see how a situation needs to play out, but you do not want to seem interfering. You do not always express your sense of confusion to the appropriate person when others attempt to deal with you inappropriately. Being able to prioritize what needs to be done emotionally is not always easy for you. You can just shut down when you are overwhelmed. Your metabolism shows to be a weak point in your vocal print.

Points of Communication, Complications and Complaints

You have a powerful sense of justice, fairness, and Truth. Bullies and breaches of trust disturb you at a deep spiritual level. Without realizing it, you may tend to run over people who do not obviously stand up for themselves. It is hard for you to recognize when you are exerting your own needs by downplaying the needs of others.

You tend to express your ideas in terms of benefits to others. You prefer to have enough time to take pride and pleasure in what you accomplish. You can work well with others and are often put in a leadership position.

You tend to neglect your spiritual growth by maintaining too heavy a workload. You would like to have more time to spend on spiritual things. You have a tough time prioritizing what you want to do first.

You plan to get things organized as soon as you finish doing what is important. You know how you want things to look but sometimes do not have the energy/enthusiasm to make it so. Too much energy is spent taking care of other people's issues/things.

You can be talked out of your own opinions if solid evidence is presented because you are open to current ideas. You can sometimes feel criticism too quickly and too personally because you want to be more aware of your self-issues. You can be extremely hard on yourself - taking blame or responsibility - that does not really reside with you. You sometimes fail to defend yourself because you do not want to criticize the opinions of others. In your desire to be of value to the growth of others you will learn that doing for others too quickly is not good for them.

Points of Cooperation, Learning, Opportunity, and Growth

Your powerful sense of justice can be channeled for positive change. You have tendency to want to fight authority when threatened but also want to take the path of least resistance. You like to see the physical balance of power restored. Physical balance between exercise and what needs to be done must be respected.

Planning and carrying through your plans are an important aspect of your personality. You plan well and have an intuitive sense about what will work. Others respect your opinions about your projects even though they may argue with your suggestions.

You tend to think you ought to fight authority to prove personal points of honor even when it costs you. Joining a group that thinks like you do will help bring justice to a situation. Your own self-approval issues can get in the way of expressing your opinions that need to be heard. You can be quick to judge before you gather all the pertinent facts. In most cases it is a lack of understanding your motivations.

You may go along with the crowd too easily just because it is convenient. You see what is "right," but do not always know how to make it happen. Having the leader run over others who cannot express themselves engages deep emotions for you.

You like to get things done but need a plan first. You do not like people interfering with the way things need to get done. You do not mind helping but you do not what to be kept to a schedule or plan that is not your own.

You are hit hard at a soul level when justice does not prevail. You actively want to bring spiritual law to your life. Contemplation of what you want for your life and those around you will bring peace of spirit. Trusting in spirit may come hard for you or may be too easy because you jump from not questioning to total questioning. Balance between Truth and Spirit must come from within. Listening to others will give you ideas, but will not satisfy you.

The desire and ability to be a leader is not often recognized until you speak up. You do not always do things because you want to but because it is expected of you. You tend to give too much or too little of yourself. Reciprocal appreciation is important to you.

You can easily use self-talk as a way of self-healing. You would like to be appreciated but often feel awkward handling the attention. You sometimes know the right solutions before you hear all the facts. You dislike being interrupted when you are trying to concentrate or explain. It is often hard to get going in the morning.

Your highest note is associated with the expression of physically prioritizing; personal control over what happens in your physical environment; your internal perspective of insight and self-awareness; internal faith, fairness and fulfillment; the expression of justice, fairness and Truth; and joint, tendon and connective tissue issues, along with smooth muscle contractions.

The right words at the right time can sometimes elude you because of all the internal dialogue. You may be caught once in a situation but you aren't often caught twice without a proper answer.

Points of Communication, Complications and Complaints

You tend to teach by your actions. It is particularly bothersome when people use or borrow your property without permission. You understand that trust should be earned but often trust without reservation.

What you see is what you get: she is well grounded and feels she can make a difference. She is also genuinely concerned; emotions first; intellect second.

She wants to do a lot, but has a hard time slowing down to listen.

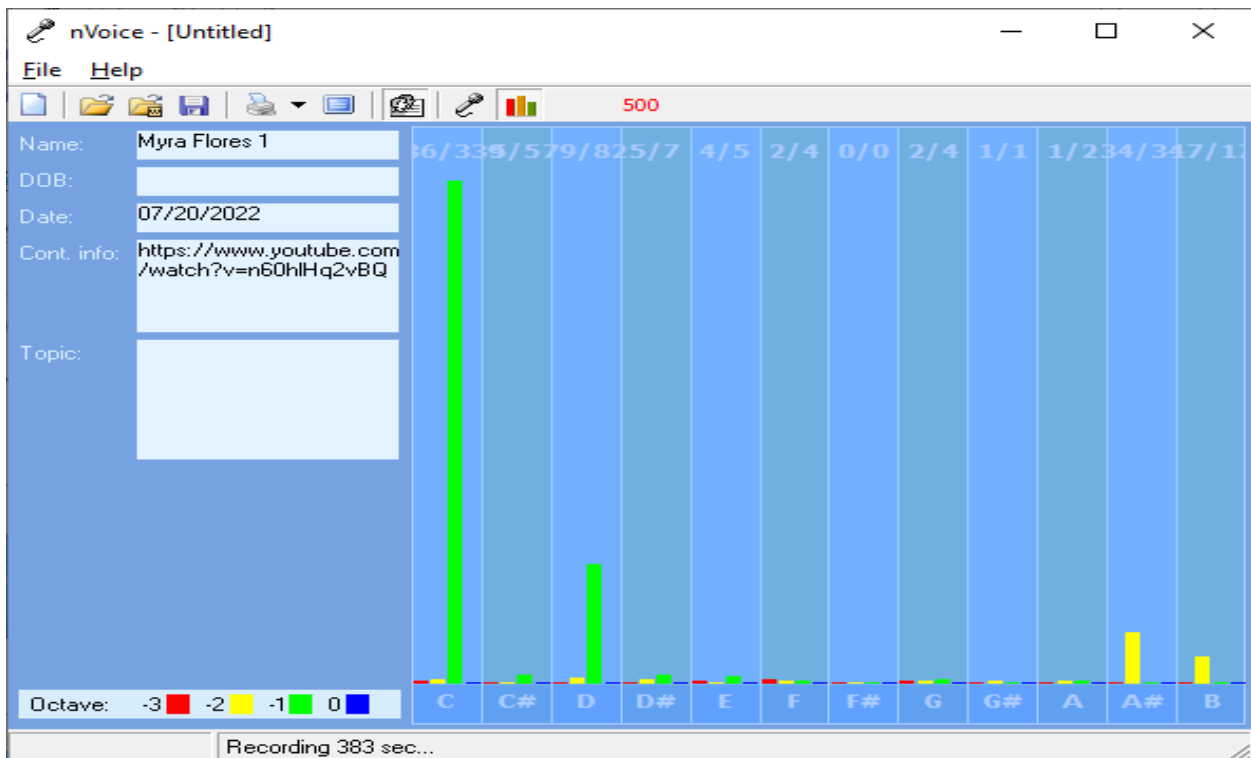

She can snap back if people won't consider the responsibilities or consequences of their actions, and wants to benefit others.

She is vulnerable – she doesn't often stop to explain the behaviors of others thoroughly.

She will take criticism for others but is emotionally vulnerable for herself.

She has and keeps high ideas of honor and carefully weighs benefits, emotions and intellect.

She is a bit naïve and will need strong emotional support from those close to her. She will take on challenges bigger than her station, kind of like an intelligent, caring, but less gaudy AOC.

Points of Importance, Attention and Consequence

Because you are a strong, capable leader you sometimes find it hard to listen, without interruption, to the opinions and ideas of others. Others see you as having leadership potential but they may resent you for the same reason. People don't usually contradict you because your reaction to perceived criticism can be unsettling to others. Pushing others as hard as you push yourself can lead to resentment. You can step in and take over if a job needs done. You appreciate others who recognize your ability to be of service. You have high ideas and expect the same of others.

Sometimes there is conflict between your inner ideals and what you want others to think of you. It is important to you that spirituality be a part of everyday life. You think that feeding the mind is just as important as feeding the body. You are aware of how painful thoughtless words can be.

Your highest note is associated with the expression of self-power. The issues of circulation and stamina reside with this note. Your highest note is associated with the expression of service to humanity and human spirit. Your feelings and desire to help others resides with this note. Your highest note is associated with the expression of your internal perspective of service to self vs. humanitarian needs. The spirit of your inner core resides with your ability to take quiet time for yourself.

Your motivation is mostly mental. Ideas come to you in very odd moments when you are distracted by a required task. It would take a lot of planning to get everything done that you want to accomplish. You can sometimes do too much for others in the hopes of helping them change. You do for others before you do for yourself. It is a struggle sometimes to decide what you really think and what part belongs to someone else because you are so empathetic. Defining your own ideals and what you want from life is the first step to not following a wrong road. You can see what is the best for others but sometimes ignore what is the best for you. You tend to learn by example. Physical issues are not your priority. You often have more chores than you can possibly get done. Structure is not required for you to be comfortable

Points of Communication, Complications and Complaints

You tend to express your ideas in term of benefits to others. You prefer to have enough time to take pride and pleasure in what you accomplish. You can work well with others and are often put in a leadership position.

Being appreciated is especially important to you. You sometimes help others to the detriment of yourself. Your emotions run strong and can influence your health.

You seek guidance from many sources both inside and outside of yourself. Spirituality in all that you do is important to you. You actively seek to bring spirit into your interactions with others.

You can easily be distracted from carrying out your plans by a more exciting prospect. You don't seem to have enough time and energy to get everything done that you want to accomplish. You would rather people come to you and ask for help instead of assuming you have the time to assist them.

You can be talked out of your own opinions if solid evidence is presented because you are open to new ideas. You can sometimes feel criticism too quickly and too personally because you want to be more aware of your self-issues. You can be very hard on yourself - taking blame or responsibility - that does not really reside with you. You sometimes fail to defend yourself because you don't want to criticize the opinions of others. In your desire to be of value to the growth of others you will learn that doing for others too quickly is not good for them.

You can find what you need so organization isn't really necessary. You can get by with what is functional. You sometimes ignore what needs to be done and just do what pleases you.

Points of Cooperation, Learning, Opportunity and Growth

Organizing your space in your own way is important to you. You delight in seeing the results of what you have physically accomplished. You enjoy the company of people who are comfortable with the natural environment. You have many physical sides that you present at your whim.

You have the intuitional ability to hear beyond the words people are speaking. You are guided by an inner source of strength. Actively seeking the answers of life is a priority to you.

You may go along with the crowd too easily just because it is convenient. You see what is "right" but don't always know how to make it happen. Having the leader run over others who can't express themselves engages deep emotions for you.

You do for others just because they ask not because they deserve your time. You do for others more quickly than you do for yourself. Helping people grow emotionally is rewarding to you.

You have a tendency to think you ought to fight authority to prove personal points of honor even when it costs you. Joining a group that thinks like you do will help bring justice to a situation. Your own self approval issues can get in the way of expressing your opinions that need to be heard. You can be quick to judge before you gather all the pertinent facts. In most cases it is a lack of understanding your motivations.

Providing others with your reasons for an action, would produce more cooperation. You have a hard time understanding people's ability to be so unfair to each other. You will quickly come to the aid of those who are not being treated fairly.

You are more likely than others to resent people who use power trips to get their own way. Your ability to use power for the right reason at the right time is important to you. You have a good grasp of when you should use your influence for others and when you should use it for yourself. Others look to you for leadership but you don't always want to be in that position.

You strive to bring together what others think of you with what you think of yourself. You can second guess yourself in a heartbeat. You let others convince you that your feelings are in error because you care about them and their opinions.

You like praise but don't always know how to accept it humbly. You don't always know what words to use to express what your real needs are. You would rather they just be provided. You wish someone could understand you without demanding a lot of conversation.

You can be talked out of your own opinions if solid evidence is presented because you are open to new ideas. You can sometimes feel criticism too quickly and too personally because you want to be more aware of your self-issues. You can be very hard on yourself - taking blame or responsibility - that does not really reside with you. You sometimes fail to defend yourself because you don't want to criticize the opinions of others. In your desire to be of value to the growth of others you will learn that doing for others too quickly is not good for them.

You know how to get things done but don't always have the time to deal with the details. Remember that planning something is not the same as getting something done. Thinking and doing need more balance.

Points of Cooperation, Learning, Opportunity and Growth

You are willing to spend a lot of your time making sure that others learn about integrity, wisdom and responsibility. You challenge yourself much more than others challenge you. You love seeing all the pieces fall together to make it all work.

Getting to the core of what you really believe to be the right way of life is important to you. There are times when you disregard your own needs in order to help others. It is important to you that you make a difference in the lives of others to help them move toward a more unselfish life. You are a natural teacher by example. You have a patient outlook on life and can work toward a specific goal without regard for your own needs.

Your strong sense of justice can be channeled for positive change. You have tendency to want to fight authority when threatened but also want to take the path of least resistance. You like to see the physical balance of power restored. Physical balance between exercise and what needs to be done must be respected.

You don't mind working to make your environment a place of enjoyment and peace. Working physically toward spiritual balance needs to be a part of your life. What others have is not a concern for you.

Bringing plans to fruition is important to you. Your sense of physical honor is high. A lack of physical space and tools can keep you from doing what you planned.

Planning and carrying through your plans is an important aspect of your personality. You plan well and have an intuitive sense about what will work. Others respect your opinions about your projects even though they may argue with your suggestions.

You tend to think you ought to fight authority to prove personal points of honor even when it costs you.

Joining a group that thinks like you do will help bring justice to a situation. Your own self approval issues can get in the way of expressing your opinions that need to be heard. You can be quick to judge before you gather all the pertinent facts. In most cases it is a lack of understanding your motivations.

You like to get things done but need a plan first. You don't like people interfering with the way things need to get done. You don't mind helping but you don't want to be kept to a schedule or plan that is not your own.

You have a low tolerance for meaningless conversation. You have lots of ideas but prefer to keep them to yourself until you have worked them out completely. Even when you know someone is lying you feel uncomfortable confronting them. You would like the world to be a fair place without the need for arguments.

You strive to bring together what others think of you with what you think of yourself. You can second guess yourself in a heartbeat. You let others convince you that your feelings are in error because you care about them and their opinions.

You are hit hard at a soul level when justice does not prevail. You actively want to bring spiritual law to your life. Contemplation of what you want for your life and those around you will bring peace of spirit. Trusting in spirit may come hard for you or may be too easy because you jump from not questioning to total questioning. Balance between Truth and Spirit must come from within. Listening to others will give you ideas but won't satisfy you.

Your self-power will increase when you begin to demand equal treatment. Your desire to help others can override your ability to accept from others. Always doing for others first is sometimes living a lonely life.
