Bringing together New Medicine and Ancient Healing Methods

The automation of Ancient Healing Methods

Input your voice and receive a personal, computerized, quantifying report of your own vocal BioMarker anomalies.

Bringing ancient methods of sound healing into the modern era has been a challenge for those who “hear the call” to use sound to make a difference in the lives of those who need support and healing.

Jill Mattson’s publication, The Lost Waves of Time, is more than a superb rendition of ancient healing as she also takes you through the eons of healing practices throughout several continents and populations. Mattson reports that in early cultures, healing was a matter of intuition and/or being in touch with universal connections that was once prevalent and used by special appointees of a given community. In some cultures every individual was assigned a “Signature Sound” as part of their spiritual identity.

Healing Masters are still here today but are often “interrogated” by those who consider themselves to be a part of “legitimate” medicine, because these modern-day practitioners depend on statistical validation for diagnosis.

The Institute of BioAcoustic Biology, under the tutelage of Sharry Edwards, MEd, has been investigating the idea that the frequencies of the voice are a holographic representation of the body’s form and function. This would indicate that the voice could potentially be used as a diagnostic tool but could also provide sound-based solutions for health.

In 2004, The Institute was able to publish the tenet that “People with similar wellness issues produce similar vocal biomarkers.” This suggests that the sound frequencies produced by a human voice could be used to identify and quantify the wellness status of a person or find the commonalities for a group suffering from similar maladies.

MIT and the Mayo Clinic, among many others, have taken on the task of providing proof of Vocal BioMarkers for use by conventional medical models.

Edwards, the established pioneer of Human BioAcoustics, has taken on the task of bringing the information she has amassed to the public for their use to self-predict, manage and have dominion over their own health and health freedoms.

The online Portal is open to the public at SoundHealthPortal.com, and it includes tutorials, evaluations, documentaries, campaigns, articles, and references plus the opportunity to scan your own voice for errant frequencies (sour notes). Input your voice and receive a personal, computerized, quantifying report of your own vocal BioMarker anomalies.

The Sound Health Portal presents the opportunity to experience Sound Health LIVE! while offering innovations that provide a balance between science and esoteric.

Portal solutions include:

All issues use Frequency Equivalentents™ which form the tenets of BioAcoustic Biology

Well over 100,000 frequency-based entries divided into multiple bundles, including sports, pain, weight management, circulation, stem cells, regeneration, respiration, toxicity, reproduction...and much more

BioAcoustic Bundles allow you to search and compare several body systems at once

Being online allows your patients to deposit vocal prints from their location

Allows for intuitional input but statistically supports it too

Gathers and evaluates vocal Frequencies automatically

BioMarkers that provide a priority listing of issues

Advances to show underlying issues

AVAILABLE 24/7

Tutorials	Automatic priority listings
Public workshops	Professional version with frequencies, formulations
Textbook	Graphs, notes, charts and reports
Corporate accounts	Can be translated to other languages
Sports evaluations	Helps finds root and multiple root cause
Allows mobile evaluations	Public Nutrition and Muscle templates included with free subscription
Built-in reference library	Personality Profiling
Stores your data online	Taught by Sharry Edwards
Mobile client input
Allows comparisons of long-term data
30-day trial period
